

JOHN PREU FAMILY NEWSPAPER ARTICLES 1899 to 2012 The Hartford Courant

John Daley Preu was born July 23, 1913 in Hartford, CT; he was the son of the late John Francis and Sarah (Daley) Preu. John was educated in Hartford, and received his degree in art illustration from the Pratt Institute in New York. He became an art teacher and worked for 35 years at Weaver High School, the same high school that he graduated from in 1931. He retired in 1970 as the head of the Weaver art department.

The following Hartford Courant (Hartford Connecticut) newspaper articles must contain one of the following keywords in order to be included in this compilation: John F Preu, John D Preu, John Daley Preu, Odile Preu or John Preu.

The compilation of articles was put together for present and future relatives of John D Preu who might be interested in his life activities that were noted in a Hartford Courant article. Many articles are related to his teaching activities at Weaver High School in Hartford Connecticut and at the YMCA.

The next 9 pages are an index of the article names modified a little. Each index on a page is in chronological order and the same order the article should be in this compilation to help you locate an article.

This compilation was created and put online at archive.org by Robert James Ellis Enjoytodaytoo@yahoo.com in appreciation of Mark and Christopher Preu's help with his Weaver High Yearbook Digitization Project and in appreciation of Mark and Christopher Preu's donation of their father John Daley Preu's Weaver High Yearbook Collection 1924 to 1970 to the Hartford Public Library History Center.

Dancing Floor.

The reception of the class of 1903 of the Hartford Public High School was held last evening in the school gymnasium from 7:30 until 12:30 o'clock. A large number of the former graduates of the school and relatives and friends of the class were present to join in the festivities of an event, which is to the pupils a social, the severing of all social ties with their comrades of the classroom, so far as life at the school is concerned. A large number assembled before the doors were opened, and the number was so increased that several times the dancers were somewhat embarrassed by the assemblage on the gymnasium floor. Above the gymnasium, about the running track, a large number of persons who did not dance enjoyed the music and gazed with enthusiasm on the brilliant scene below.

The gymnasium was tastefully decorated with crimson and white bunting, the colors of the class, while a huge ball of flowers with white streamers occupied a conspicuous place above. Altogether the affair was a brilliant success, mainly through the efficient work of the reception committee, composed of Harvey Clark Pond, chairman, Gilbert Rogers Wentworth, Warren Storrs Chapin, Julia Flood Smith, and Helen Unisa Baker.

Harold Crawford Burnham officiated as class marshal. Those who assisted him were Robert George White, Russell Gladwin, Leroy Austin Ladd, Lloyd Toulmin Chalker, Raymond Howard Callahan, Harold Morris Kenyon, Harry Skinner Bartlett, Robert Daniel Olmstead and Robert Alexander Angus. SPELLACY WINS RACE IN A WALK

Butler Loses Own Ward and Saves Only First Ward Delegation.

OLD LINERS ARE AGAIN IN THE SADDLE

Slaughter Affects Candidates for Council in a Number of Instances.

Spellacy is the man and it was a shame to take the time to go through the formality of voting for delegates at the democratic primaries yesterday, as Robert P. Butler's candidacy was of the "also ran" variety. The former town chairman came out on top in only one ward, the First, where most of his delegates won, but by the slenderest margin, while Senator Thomas J. Spellacy carried eight of the nine wards in which there were contests, including the home wards of both candidates. Mr. Butler failed to get the endorsement of the Tenth, in which he lives.

Political observers had been of the opinion that Spellacy would defeat Butler, but it was thought that the vanquished would save something from the wreck—something more than one lone ward. However, the Eighth and Tenth, where the hopes of the Butlerites ran high, steered for the Spellacy column and there was practically nothing left, as the Seventh Ward, where Senator Spellacy lives, refused to go back on him. In most of the wards the margin was a substantial one, but in the fighting Second, Councilman Herman P. Kopplemann, leader of the anti-Spellacy forces, played the role of the dying gladiator well, Spellacy having only seventeen plurality in a total of more than 300 votes. There were about 2,400 votes cast in the city for the two tickets and Senator Spellacy had a lead of about 600. Spellacy's biggest plurality was in his own ward, the Seventh, where his delegates led the Butler men by more than 300.

The First Ward, which has become noted for close contests at democratic caucuses, lived up to its reputation, a number of delegates being tied at 130 each, one of them being on the Spellacy ticket. Under the rules, the ties should be voted off today, but as the convention comes today there isn't any spare time, and the moderator decided to let the convention settle the matter. There is nothing at stake, as far as the nomination for mayor is concerned, and nobody appeared greatly worried over the complication. The Third Ward delegates would be divided between the two candidates in case of a contest, but as there is nothing to be gained by giving Mr. Butler a complimentary vote this evening, the convention may decide it a wise thing to give Senator Spellacy a unanimous vote at the start.

An important feature of the outcome yesterday was the change in the personnel of the town committee, six of whose members are new men. In a number of instances the present members were candidates for reelection and were beaten. Those who stay on the committee are John F. Hogan of the First Ward, William J. Reardon of the Third, John F. Morgan of the Fourth, and A. J. Meyer of the Sixth. The victory yesterday was won by the old line faction of the party plus their late opponent, former Mayor I. A. Sullivan, and this faction, therefore, appears to be once more in the saddle and will be in power during the presidential campaign, this power being considered desirable at such a time. Whether the triumph of this faction will mean a change in the chairmanship of the town committee is a question. Chairman Henry McManus has not taken part in the Spellacy-Butler contest, but it is thought that his sympathies of late have been with the man who won yesterday.

The primaries resulted also in retiring to private life a number of members of the present court of common council who were willing to go back. In fact, a lot of things were done in the short space of 180 minutes and some of them will have to be figured out later to get at their full significance. The results in the several wards are given below.

First Ward.

At the First Ward caucus the highest vote, any of the delegates on the Butler ticket received was 133 and two of the delegates fell to 130 votes. Joseph Benson, who was named as a delegate on the Spellacy ticket, received 130 votes, the next highest vote on the Spellacy ticket was 129. Thomas F. Murray, the moderator of the caucus, declared all those on the Butler ticket and Mr. Benson, in addition, elected as delegates to the city convention and he said that it would be up to the convention to decide how the votes of the tied delegates should be split. The Butler ward ticket also won. Edwin H. Ketter, candidate for alderman, receiving 144 votes to 118 for Alderman Michael A. Bailey on the Spellacy ticket, who was a candidate for renomination.

The caucus was held in the lobby of City Hall and old-time democratic workers in the ward said that it was the quietest primary that the ward had had in many years. From the time of the opening of the polls to the closing, the Butler and Spellacy workers were in front of City Hall, but there seemed to be no unusual activity. On a total registration of 392 in the ward there were 280 votes cast. There were twenty-one ward tickets, ten for Ketter and eleven for Bailey, deposited in the delegate box. These were thrown out and of the delegate tickets in the ward box, ten for

Martin J. Doyle, leader of the Spellacy faction, and seventeen for Malloch J. Hogan, leader of the Butler delegates, were thrown out. The officers of the primary election were: Box-tenders, John Mulligan, representing Mr. Butler, and Terrence J. Campbell, representing Senator Spellacy; John F. Cronin, checker, representing Butler, and James A. Duffy, checker, representing Spellacy. The vote received by each candidate on the different tickets was as follows:—

Second Ward.

The Spellacy ticket, headed by Bernard Farrell, the ward chairman, won in the Second Ward by seven-tenths of the vote, the total vote being 162 to 152. The ward ticket headed by William T. Tobin for alderman won out by a slightly reduced majority. Peter J. Conneron being the successful candidate for ward chairman. The successful ticket was engineered by Alderman Leonard D. Way and the defeated ticket was in charge of President Herman P. Koppelman of the board of councilmen. A total of 350 votes were cast, the vote coming in steadily from the time the polls opened, there being no rush at any time during the evening. A police detail under Sergeant Patrick J. Finley and Thomas Elwood kept the crowd in front of Loaty's blacksmith shop, where the polls were located, in good order at all times. Former Alderman Patrick J. Mahon was moderator, Daniel F. Callahan and Michael J. Healy, checkers, and Louis Molesky, William J. Clancy, John O'Connell and Hugh Finnagan, box-tenders. There were twenty-nine ballots deposited in the wrong box, nineteen of which were Butler tickets. During the time of voting both candidates for mayor and Chairman Henry McManus of the town committee visited the ward.

The successful ticket was as follows:—
Delegates—Bernard Farrell, John J. Conneron, George F. Vall, Albert Rosenthal, Leonard D. Way, Richard Norrie, Daniel F. McNamara, Michael J. McCue, Frank P. Cline, Patrick H. Daly.

Aldermen—William T. Tobin.
Councilmen—Daniel D. Doyle, Louis Helgerson, John F. Vall, Nathan Sabol.

Ward Committee—Herman P. Koppelman, William J. Sullivan, Timothy Connors, George Ripolone, David News.

Town Committee—John Deloughry.

Third Ward.

The lack of a contest was responsible for a light vote in the Third Ward, only sixty-six out of a possible 571 casting their ballots at No. 19 Mather street, all being given to the following ticket:—

Aldermen—Carl A. Secoy.
Councilmen—John T. Scott, John E. Smith, Jacob Silverstein, Dexter P. Mather.

Delegates—Henry D. Ely, John F. Flynn, Thomas McAuliff, Maurice F. Ahern, Daniel Readert, Arthur Mather, William A. Hendon, James Harris, Daniel J. O'Brien, Marcus Werba.

The caucus officers were as follows: Moderator, W. J. Reardon; checker, Jacob F. Silverstein; counter, Matthew Hines; box-tender, Thomas McAuliff; clerk, Edward J. Flynn.

Fourth Ward.

Spellacy had an easy time of it in the Fourth Ward. His ticket got 174 votes to Butler's fifty-eight. Spellacy's ticket really got 177 votes, but as the total combination was three more than the check list showed, three ballots were thrown out. There was no contest over the ward ticket. The primary was held at No. 1,399 Main street. John F. Morgan was moderator, the box-tenders were John J. Morgan, John J. Kelly and Joseph Leate; the checkers, Edward Murphy and Samuel H. Gross, and the counters, Henry M. Ahern, Frederick W. Barrett, John J. Looney and Joseph P. Tuttle. Aside from the fact that a Spellacy adherent had a fit just before the ballots were counted, everything passed off quietly. John F. Morgan was the Spellacy manager, and Joseph W. Connor looked after the Butler campaign. Automobile service helped out the Spellacy campaign. The ward ticket got forty-six votes.

The only ward ticket was: Aldermen, John A. Pilgrard; councilmen, O. Vincent Marsh, Edward J. Miskell, Joseph W. Connor, Milton Wiedler; town committee, John F. Morgan; ward committee, Valentine J. Flynn, Hugh F. McDonald, John Mason, Charles B. Ailing and David B. Reardon.

The successful Spellacy ticket of delegates was: John F. Morgan, Frederick W. Barrett, William W. O'Brien, James H. Madigan, John J. Smith, Thomas F. Nagle, Patrick J. Slik, John J. Kelly.

The unsuccessful Butler ticket of delegates was: Joseph P. Tuttle, Robert W. Barrett, Joseph W. Connor, James Lee Danahy, Leopold De Laeuw, Edward B. Dix, Herman Gross, Joseph

Lee, John J. Looney, John Gustav A. Naedele.

Fifth Ward.

The Spellacy delegate ticket carried the Fifth Ward caucus which was held at the Red 8 Cigar store, No. 116 Pratt street, 84 to 48, while the ward ticket of the Spellacy faction won, 74 to 58. There were two scratches on the ward ticket, Joseph P. Ryan being scratched once for Frank H. Peltier, and Edward J. Molunphy being scratched once for Daniel J. Mahoney. The registration in this ward is 235 and the vote cast is considered a good one. The box-tenders were Richard P. Stapleton, George F. Powers, James C. Malone and Thomas F. Butler; checkers, William Hollings, Nicholas J. Rowe and Patrick H. Kane; moderator, Daniel J. Mahoney.

The Spellacy delegate ticket was: Joseph E. O'Neill, Sidney E. Clarke, George Zunner, Daniel F. Sullivan, John F. O'Brien, Thomas Cosgrove, William L. Crowley, John J. Fitzpatrick, Michael J. O'Brien, Thomas H. Sheridan.

The Spellacy ward ticket was: Aldermen—Frank H. Peltier.
Councilmen—Thomas J. Cummings, Joseph P. Ryan, William H. George, John P. McCullough.

Ward Committee—John F. O'Brien, Joseph E. Dunn, Philip H. Reilly, John W. Rogers, Joseph E. O'Neill.
Town Committee—Edward J. Molunphy.

The Butler delegate ticket was: George Zunner, Joseph W. Dowling, Joseph J. Kopacka, William Hollings, James C. Malone, Daniel J. Mahoney, John E. Murray, George F. Powers, Thomas P. Reardon, John J. Riley.

The Butler ward ticket was: Aldermen—Joseph P. Ryan.
Councilmen—Joseph W. Dowling, Abner P. Tilton, Joseph J. Kopacka, James C. Malone.

Ward Committee—Thomas J. Cummings, William Hollings, William J. Radigan, Patrick H. Kane, Robert L. Fernald.
Town Committee—Daniel J. Mahoney.

Sixth Ward.

Spellacy delegates were elected in the Sixth Ward by a vote of 163 to 70. A total of 233 votes and one coal bill (found in the box when opened) were cast. The registration in this ward is 373. It was considered a fair representation of voters for a caucus. About the only thing of moment to occur was a faint-hearted protest by Constable James R. Graham against two of the counters whose names appeared on the ballots. The protest was not forced to an issue when it was learned that the protested counters were Butler men and Constable Graham was on the Butler delegation. The Spellacy delegates-elect are as follows:—

Richard J. Kinsella, James F. O'Donnell, Joseph Kashman, Daniel E. Glynn, August J. Meyer, Patrick F. Fitzgerald, Thomas J. Hayes, James P. Moran, Edward W. Ryan, David P. Shields.

Ninety-three votes were cast for the ward ticket, which was without opposition, as follows:—

Aldermen—Albert P. Krone.
Councilmen—Benjamin Kashman, Michael R. Loden, William J. Irwin, John W. Guilfoill.

Ward Committee—William E. Guilfoill, John B. Mahoney, Thomas J. Duley, William Youell, John H. Holloway.

Town Committee—August J. Meyer. The officers of the caucus were as follows: Moderator, August J. Meyer; checkers, Thomas P. Farrell, John F. Preu; box-tender, Charles W. Dougherty; counters, John H. Dowd, John F. Preu, C. W. Dougherty, Thomas P. Farrell.

Seventh Ward.

Notwithstanding the rumors to the contrary, the race in the Seventh Ward proved to be a runaway event for Spellacy, for, according to the returns, Butler had not even rounded the turn for the homestretch, when the agile senator had breasted the tape a winner, 352 to 136. The total vote of the ward, 518, is one of the record breaking events of the ward, there having been but one previous caucus that exceeded it, that of 1904, when 542 votes were polled. A year ago 419 votes were polled at the caucus. The registration of the ward is 788.

The excitement began early in the day, and when the caucus booth, at the corner of Franklin avenue and Elliott street, was thrown open at 6 o'clock, a long line of voters were in waiting. From that time, until the polls were closed at 8 o'clock, a steady stream of voters filed through the building. Owing to the new location of the caucus booth, a much larger number of automobiles were on hand, and an effort was made by the Spellacyites to get out a large vote. In spite of the fact that the voting place had been changed. In fact the Spellacy adherents attribute not a little of their phenomenal success to this change, declaring that it does not meet with the favor of the voters, and that the voters took occasion to show it.

Throughout the fight Senator Spellacy was on hand the greater part of the time, directing his adherents, while Chairman John J. Nagle of the ward committee looked after the Butler interests. The moderator was John J. Nagle. Checker M. A. Hartshall and Box-tenders John Dalton and George L. Bacon were Butler men and George McAlpine, checker, and Peter Murray, box-tender, were representatives of the Spellacy faction.

The contest was without interest from a spectacular point of view, there being no arguments or friction of any kind. One name, that of Lawrence Sullivan, was found to be on the caucus list in two places, accounting for a total of 514 votes being cast, according to the check list, whereas but 513 ballots were found in the boxes. It was the first time that the vote for the council ticket and ward committee and the delegates was cast on separate ballots, and, in consequence, considerable confusion resulted, and not a few voters lost their votes. Of the council tickets, a total of thirty-four were found in the delegates' box, and were thrown out. Of these, twenty-six were for the Spellacy ticket and eight for the Butler ticket. Of the delegate tickets, twenty-seven were found in the council ticket box, and were thrown out. Twenty of these were for the Spellacy delegates and seven for the Butler list. The council tickets showed some scratching, but the delegate tickets went through with practically no scratches. Michael J. Hasey on the Butler ticket, being the only man to have a friend scratch his name.

The following delegates were elected:—
Thomas J. Spellacy, Thomas Quilty, James Donnan, William T. Lacey, John A. Broch, William J. Burke, John M. Dunn, Thomas F. Moagher, Peter F. Quinn, Frank J. Madden.

The defeated delegates were Michael J. Hasey, Isaac Herlitzshok, Alphonse Collins, John H. Lloyd, George B. Caulfield, Robert C. Braun, George Williams, Alexander Fenner, James C. Weyand, George B. Kinsler.

The vote on the council tickets was as follows:—

Spellacy Ticket.
Aldermen—William A. Crosscup, 318.
Councilmen—George F. Roberts, 332; Edward A. Monahan, 328; Patrick C. Birmingham, 330; Jacob S. Vogel, 330.

Ward Committee—Thomas F. Corcoran, 333; John F. McKenna, 332; John F. Morahan, 333; Charles McCarthy, 332; Eugene Collins, 333.
Town Committee—William J. Turner, 335.

Butler Ticket.
Aldermen—Robert D. Chapin, 175.
Councilmen—George E. Speath, 153; Thomas F. Burke, 152; Ernest F. Oakley, Jr., 153; George A. Byrne, 154.

Ward Committee—Robert C. Huan, 151; James Crowley, 153; Daniel F. Haggerty, 151; George Williams, 151; John M. Shaughnessy, 151.
Town Committee—John J. Nagle, 154.

Eighth Ward.

The Spellacy ticket was the victorious one in the Eighth Ward, which was supposed to be one of Butler's strongholds. The Spellacy delegate ticket had a majority of 44, and the Spellacy ward ticket, headed by John A. Fox for alderman, had a majority of 41. A fairly heavy vote was polled, 354 out of the registration of 556 voting. General John P. Harbison revealed the fact that he was a democrat—again—by voting in the caucus. Following is the successful delegate ticket:—

James A. Felleter, Andrew J. Broughel, Michael Kelly, John F. Conner, Abraham Rice, Bernard A. Malley, Thomas W. Kelly, William A. Walsh, Andrew Milton, Daniel Kelly, Jr.

Following is the successful ward ticket:—

Aldermen, John A. Fox.
Councilmen—John P. Gunning, Thomas F. Burns, John C. Rice, William J. Moran.

Ward Committee—William J. Booden, James F. Hanaghan, Edward F. Ahern, John J. Barry, Joseph F. Fagan.
Town Committee—Timothy L. McCarthy.

The defeated Butler delegate ticket consisted of the following:—

Jarvis McA. Johnson, Patrick Dully, Michael Kelly, Daniel J. Landrigan, John J. Hyland, Peter H. Conroy, James L. Slatery, Charles F. Gallagher, Daniel J. Sullivan, Thomas J. Brown.

The defeated ward ticket:—

Aldermen—Thomas J. Carey.
Councilmen—John G. Gili, Thomas G. Burns, Louis S. Buthe, John C. Rice.

Ward Committee—James Dully, Thomas E. Dillon, John J. Hyland, Peter H. Conroy, Charles F. Gallagher.

Town Committee—Jarvis McA. Johnson.

The caucus officers were as follows: Moderator, J. McA. Johnson; box-tenders, Charles Carlson, John Daley, T. F. Rice, J. O'Leary; checkers, J. W. Gunning, D. J. Landrigan; counters, James A. Felleter, J. McA. Johnson, Edward F. Ahern, Joseph Slatery. After the moderator had declared the results of the vote, Jarvis McA. Johnson addressed those present and said, in part:—

"I was on the ticket that was defeated, but I want to say there are no hard feelings. We were beaten in a fair fight, and now I ask those of you who voted for the ticket I was on to turn and give your best support to the successful ticket."

In the voting for delegates, 191 ballots were cast for the Spellacy ticket and 147 for the Butler ticket. Sixteen ballots were rejected by the moderator for various reasons. In the vote on the ward ticket, the ticket headed by Fox got 182 votes against 141 for the ticket headed by Carey. In the latter ballot, thirteen split tickets were reported as scattering, and eight were rejected, which made a count of but 341 ballots cast, leaving a discrepancy of ten between the counters' figures and the check list. No recount was asked for.

Ninth Ward.

The Ninth Ward went into the Spellacy column after both contingents put in three hours of solid work. The Spellacy delegates were elected by a plurality of 64 votes, the vote being 170 to 106. The Spellacy ward ticket, however, did not run so well, and won by a plurality of but 19 votes, the count being 147 to 128. This may have been caused by the fact that the Spellacy candidate for ward chairman, Thomas F. Dunn, was pitted against William J. White, the present ward chairman, who is a Butler man.

Of the registration of 392, just 292 voted. On the count of the ballots for the delegates, fourteen tickets were declared void by Moderator William J. White, and after the counting was over, another vote was found in the ballot box, and was promptly declared void by the moderator. The Spellacy delegates elected are Harry A. Moran, William F. O'Neill, Frank E. Conran, John Kilmer, William J. Cline, James A. Butler, Thomas P. Birmingham, Martin Ryan, Lawrence A. Dunn and John A. Farrell. The defeated Butler delegates are William J. Hamersley, William J. White, Henry J. Calnen, Francis B. Grano, David J. D'Arcy, Matthew J. Horan, John W. Kennedy, William Macdonald, Samuel Seraphin and Peter F. Quinn.

The Spellacy and Butler ward tickets were unanimous for Albert O. Bloom for alderman and Napoleon Richard, John W. Kennedy, Samuel Seraphin and Joseph P. Shaughnessy for councilmen. The rest of the Spellacy ward ticket—the candidates for ward committee and town committeeman—defeated the Butler ticket by nineteen votes. The victors are: Ward committee, Michael P. Dunn, John A. Farrell, Joseph A. Spellman, Harry A. Moran, Frank J. Collins; town committeeman, Thomas F. Dunn. The losing Butler candidates are: Ward committee, William J. Hamersley, Thomas D. McHugh, John P. Cunningham; town committee, William J. White.

The contest in the Ninth Ward was not as close or as exciting as expected. Councilman F. B. Crane had his automobile on hand and worked hard for the Butler contingent and, with ex-Alderman C. J. Gunning and William J. White worked in rounding up negligent adherents. John A. Farrell and Thomas F. Dunn hired an automobile for the Spellacy side and rushed Spellacy advocates to the caucus place.

Tenth Ward.

Spellacy delegates, his ward and town committee, and the nominees on his city ticket were elected by a small majority in the Tenth Ward on a total vote of 269, or 72 per cent. of the ward's democratic registration, which is 389. The Spellacy ticket of delegates got 140 votes to Butler's 129. Six ballots were rejected, leaving a majority of seventeen votes. The Spellacy ward ticket got 141 votes to Butler's 128, giving the Spellacy ticket thirteen majority. Soon after the polls opened Candidate Butler voted and after a couple of false starts set out for other wards to conquer. He returned about 6:30 o'clock and caught Moderator Henry J. McDonough passing a ballot to a voter who had entered the room without that commodity and had requested one. Mr. Butler thereupon pulled down the moderator and requested fair play.

Mr. McDonough acknowledged the error and promised to be good, explaining the reason why he had overstepped the bounds of propriety. In less than five minutes after this little side play one of Mr. Butler's cohorts was detected doing the same stunt and it then came the moderator's turn to protest. For a while it looked as if the good old times had returned, but a truce was declared and "bloodshed" prevented.

The Spellacy delegates elected are George Ulrich, Michael Kane, Henry J. McDonough, William J. Egan, Edward F. Keller, Thomas J. Schofield, James Corcoran, Charles J. Conway, James F. Murphy, Daniel F. Whulon. The defeated ticket was: Robert P. Butler, Herman Escholz, James T. Garvey, Michael Kane, Patrick F. McCabe, Peter McDonald, Henry H. Pease, James Pullar, John J. Sheu, William J. Quish.

The ward ticket elected was as follows:—

Aldermen—James F. Bennett.

NORTHWEST SCHOOL MEMORIAL PAGEANT

Approximately 100 Pupils
Participate in Historical Play.

COLORFUL SCENES WELL CARRIED OUT

Most Striking Episode That Depicting Immigrant of Today.

Approximately 100 pupils of the Northwest School took part in a Memorial Day pageant at the school yesterday. The history of America, from the Indian braves to the immigrants of today, was shown in colorful succession. The young actors and actresses gave a good account of themselves and showed the careful training of Miss Ella D. Dean and Miss Ruth Hubbard, the teachers who directed the pageant.

There was not a dull moment from the opening chorus to the drop of the curtain. After Miss Concetta Arena had given the prologue, Miss Alice Malloy, representing Connecticut, explained the stages in the country's history which the different groups represented.

Of course the Indians started off, followed by explorers, Pilgrims, Minute Men of the Revolution, soldiers of 1812, pioneers of the West, Civil War heroes, and those of the Spanish-American War and the World War. In the World War scenes were Red Cross nurses, home gardeners with hoes, a miner with his lamp, and workers in the industries.

Probably the most striking of all the scenes was the one in which about a dozen girls, dressed in the costumes of foreign countries and representing peoples who have taken America as their adopted country, expressed gratitude for the freedom and opportunity of the new land and pledged allegiance to the flag.

The school orchestra played.

Council Asks Investigation Of Capt. Mills

Mayor Requested to Name Committee of Aldermen —$50,000 Extra Appropriations Approved

The Common Council Monday night passed a resolution requesting Mayor Batterson to name a committee of aldermen to investigate the activities of Captain Herbert H. Mills, manager of the municipal airport at Earlhard Field; approved resolutions providing for extra appropriations of more than $50,000, or 40 per cent of the total contingent fund of $124,000 for the entire fiscal year, which began April 1; referred several proposals to the Police Board, including a recommendation that the motor patrol idea be abandoned, and acted on numerous other matters.

On motion of Alderman Robert F. Claffey, the board passed a resolution extending a welcome to Alderman Hollis S. Candee, who has been ill for several months.

Through a joint resolution by Aldermen Claffey and R. D. Pallotti, the Mayor was requested to notify all departments of the city to open and close their offices one hour earlier than the usual business hours from April 28 to September 27.

Committee on Taxes.

Alderman Emanuel G. Goldstein submitted a resolution asking that consideration be given to the advisability of instituting a plan by which grand list taxes would be payable in two installments, one in July and one in January, with a resultant saving to property owners in the interest item. A similar program was advocated a few years ago. The measure, calling for the appointment of a committee of three aldermen to discuss the matter, was referred to the mayor.

Alderman Goldstein also suggested that the Park Board be asked to expedite the program for the establishment of a police pistol range in one of the local parks. The resolution was passed.

Finance.

Based on favorable reports from the Board of Finance, the Council passed two resolutions providing for extra appropriations, as follows:

Park Department, to continue program by which work is given to men who would otherwise be unemployed, $25,000; Police Board, for purchase of property at 151 Vine Street, as a site for a police precinct, $19,500.

Settlements.

Three settlements of court actions against the city were recommended by Assistant Corporation Counsel Lucius F. Robinson, Jr., and in each case resolutions providing for payments were approved. The list follows:

Nettie L. Jean, fall, alleged defective sidewalk on Trinity Street action for $5000, settlement by payment of $250; Emily Chamberlin, fall, alleged icy sidewalk on Farmington Avenue, action for $5000, settlement by payment of $150; Sarah Goldstein, fall, alleged icy sidewalk, corner of Main and Westland Streets, action for $2500, settlement by payment of $100.

Claims.

Through favorable reports of the committee on claims, the following payments were authorized:

Mrs. Anna Glazier, fall, $55; Mrs. Anna Beard, fall, $30; John F. Preu, refund of personal taxes, $18; John Vallario, fall, $16.25; James J. Franklin, refund of personal taxes, $4; John J. Connors, refund of personal taxes, $2.

"Dear Sir: Enclosed please find three dollars and ten cents ($3.10) from the proceeds of a lemonade and candy stand. From James Elsner, Bob Elsner, Bernard Kohn, Sam Title and Billy Hartman. Yours truly, James Elsner, 57 Mott Ave., New London, Conn."

Penciled in a boyish scrawl, the above letter was received Monday by the Camp Courant Fund, with the money which the five boys earned by conducting a refreshment stand at the beach in Neptune Park, New London, where they are spending the summer. All the children are of Hartford except Billy Hartman, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice B. Hartman, of New York. James and Bob Elsner are the sons of Judge and Mrs. Solomon Elsner; Bernard Kohn's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Solomon J. Kohn and Sam Title is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin W. Title.

The children of Camp Courant are grateful for this contribution. They are glad to know that the good work of their camp has reached the ears and stirred the interest of so many children everywhere. They are especially proud that children on vacation at the seashore think of them and are trying earnestly to help them to have a vacation too. For to hundreds of boys and girls, whose parents can not afford to send them to shore or country, Camp Courant is their only vacation land.

Rockville, Tolland Boys Help.

Boys in Rockville and Tolland, living in communities which have plenty of trees and open spaces, also appreciate the lot of boys who live in the crowded cities, and are very much interested in the work being done at Camp Courant.

Four Orchard Street, Rockville, boys Monday ran a busy lemonade stand on Union Street, in the lot adjoining the Sempie home, and sold ice cream, lemonade and homemade fudge. The goodies, which were made by the boys' mothers, were of fine quality and the day's sale netted $1.28. The boys have decided to conduct the stand for a few more days. They are Bob Neff, 13; Charles Schmalz, 10; Herbert Little, 11 and George Herzog, 9.

A group of boys at Tolland, who have announced that they are planning to help too, will run errands for the people of Tolland village on Friday afternoons at five cents an errand, the proceeds to be given to the Camp Courant Fund.

Ice Cream Gift Appreciated.

Camp Courant's children were treated to a delightful surprise Monday afternoon, when two representatives of the Frederick Raff Co. of Ann Street, dealers in electric refrigerators, came to the camp with 15 gallons of ice cream which they had in automatic freezers for demonstration purposes. A generous portion of the cream was given to each child. It was delicious and the Frederick Raff Co. men left, after promising to come again soon with lots more.

Club Governors Coming.

The boards of governors of both the Girls' Club and the Men's Club of the "Two Hartfords," whose donations to the camp this season have totaled $875, will visit Camp Courant Wednesday afternoon to witness the daily program. They will have an opportunity to see for themselves how the money, raised through their splendid efforts, is being used to promote the welfare of Hartford's underprivileged children.

Those who will take part in the visit are Grace M. Carroll, president of the Girls' Club; Mildred Thomson, vice-president; Mollie Shea, secretary; Mrs. Arleen Gaylor, historian; Mrs. Annella Jamroga, chairman of athletics; Hattie E. Phelps, entertainment committee; Margaret Scheele, house committee; Hulda Johnson, membership; Mrs. Annette Lanman, publicity and Mrs. Jeanette Ensign, social service.

Also Maxwell J. Liberman, president of the Men's Club; John Freu, first vice-president; John Egan, second vice-president; George Adams, secretary; Arthur Wilcox, assistant treasurer; Wilfred Schroder, historian; William Downs and Paul Bonna, co-chairmen of membership committee; Charles Flynt, co-chairman of entertainment committee; Leo Graywax, co-chairman of house committee; Joseph Garbeau, Jr., chairman of athletics; Milan Palmer, co-chairman.

The sum of $70.60 in new contributions was added to the Camp Courant Fund Monday, sending the total to $718327. The camp is glad to acknowledge the donation of a box of children's books and magazines from Miss Jean Calkins, of 235 Ridgfield Street.

Five hundred and thirty-three boys and girls gave a rousing welcome to members of the boards of governors of the Girls' Club and Men's Club of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company and the Hartford Accident & Indemnity Company who visited Camp Courant Thursday afternoon. It was the first visit made by members of either club and all were unanimous in their praise of the good work being done at the camp for the underprivileged children of Hartford.

The representatives of the clubs, which have donated a total of more than $6000 to this fresh air playground during the past nine years, arrived at the camp shortly after 2 o'clock. Escorted by Miss Rena B. Smith, camp director, and Harry J. McNiff, athletic director, they were taken on a tour of inspection of the grounds and witnessed the various camp activities.

Welcomed to Camp.

First, however, they were welcomed by Henry H. Conland, publisher, and John Sudarsky, treasurer of The Courant, and Miss Mary E. J. Lally, under whose supervision the camp is conducted. The children, too, were ready and waiting to welcome the visitors. For their spokesman they had appointed little Mary Young, who, simply and sincerely, expressed the gratitude of the Camp Courant boys and girls to the kindly men and women of the "Two Hartfords."

"The boys and girls of Camp Courant are very glad to welcome you," the child said. "In behalf of the children, I wish to express our thanks for your most generous contribution to our fund. You may be sure it is put to very good use. On your tour of inspection, you will find many things which bring health and happiness to hundreds of children. The healthy tans which will be prominent at the end of the season will be your reward for your kindness to us. We thank you!"

Hold Vaudeville Show For Camp Courant Benefit

Angelina Montana, 12, of 454 Hillside Avenue, Rose DePhillips, 13, of 356 Franklin Avenue, Jeanne Vaudevoir, 16, of 13 Harvard Street, and her sister, Lucienne Vaudevoir, 17, seen left to right in the picture, held a vaudeville show Wednesday at 454 Hillside Avenue for the benefit of Camp Courant. Charging five cents admission, which included the price of lemonade and crullers, these four girls netted $7.50, which they contributed to the healthful recreation of Hartford's poorer children at Camp Courant.

First the party visited the sewing and handicraft classes, which were in full swing under the direction of the camp instructors. After admiring the products of the children's work, they were conducted through the camp buildings, the play-grounds, the new flower garden and, finally, to the new concrete swimming pool, where dozens of sun-tanned children were frolicking in the cool waters.

Sound Call for Ice Cream.

As the group was completing its tour of inspection, the call for ice cream was sounded. Immediately hundreds of youngsters came scurrying from every nook and corner of the camp, the little tots toddling along with the older children as fast as their little feet would carry them. After being marshaled in an orderly line, the children gave their cheers with all their might for the visitors, and the latter responded with three cheers for Camp Courant. It was a merry occasion, indeed.

The call for ice cream is always a signal for the release of exuberant spirits among the children. Twenty-three gallons of delicious ice cream, the generous donation of the New Haven Dairy Company, were divided among the 522 children. A similar contribution was made last week by the New Haven Dairy Company, which has shown itself to be one of the staunchest friends of Camp Courant.

Among the visitors from the "Two Hartfords" were Grace M. Carroll, president of the Girls' Club; Mildred Thomson, vice-president; Mrs. Arleen Gaylor, historian; Mrs. Annela Jamroga, chairman of athletics; Hattie E. Phelps, entertainment committee; Margaret Scheele, house committee; Hulda Johnson, membership; Mrs. Annette Lanman, publicity, and Mrs. Jeannette Ensign, social service; Maxwell J. Liberman, president of the Men's Club; John Freu, first vice-president; John Egan, second vice-president; George Adams, secretary; Arthur Wilcox, assistant treasurer; Wilfred Schroder, historian; William Downs and Paul Vonna, co-chairmen of membership committee; Charles Flynt, co-chairman of entertainment committee; Leo Graywacz, co-chairman of house committee; Joseph Garbeau, Jr., and Milan Palmer, co-chairmen of athletics.

$131.50 Added to Fund.

A total of $131.50 was added to the coffers of the Camp Courant Fund in contributions received Thursday. Heading the list was the fine donation of $100 from Syria Grotto, Mystic Order of Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm. A contribution of $10 was sent in by the Garden Club of Wethersfield and one for $5 by Mrs. George E. Bulkeley. A total of $16.50 was donated by two groups of children who conducted refreshment stands for the benefit of the Camp.

Four Rockville boys sent in a contribution with the following interesting letter:

"Dear Sir: For the past three days we boys have been selling lemonade and fudge on Union Street in an open lot. We want to add it to the Camp Courant fund. You can't realize the kick we get out of doing something to help the children at Camp Courant. Enclosed you will find nine dollars ($9), the gift of Bob Neff, George Herzog, Charles Schmal, and Herbert Little."

Children Give $7.50.

Four children, who gave a vaudeville show and fudge sale at 454 Hillside Avenue contributed the sum of $7.50. They are Angelina Montana, Rose DePhillips, Jeanne Vaudevoir and Lucienne Vaudevoir.

Late Thursday afternoon five small girls living on the Boulevard, West Hartford, brought $2.05 to The Courant office, explaining that the money was the proceeds of a lemonade stand they conducted in the afternoon at 1589 Boulevard. The children are Joan d'Arcambal, 12, 1611 Boulevard; Mary Grou, 12, 1589 Boulevard; Mary Lou Eyanson, 9, 1605 Boulevard; Phoebe Malmfeldt, 10, 1578 Boulevard, and Mary Ellen Pasco, 10, 1596 Boulevard. Their contribution will be credited on the list that will appear in Saturday's Courant.

Cross Says Parties Must Work United

Third Organization Looms Otherwise, Governor Tells Two Hartfords Men's Club

Prophesying the birth of a third political party as inevitable unless leaders in the Republican and Democratic parties can throw aside party politics and work together, Governor Cross Thursday night also expressed the conviction that adherence to the gold standard would restore the national confidence which is lacking today and lead the United States out of the depression. The Governor spoke before 250 members of the Two Hartfords Men's Club at the annual banquet Thursday evening at the City Club.

Governor Cross was introduced by Richard M. Bissell, president of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company and the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company. Following the address of Governor Cross, Mr. Bissell warned members of the club not to be swayed by false advice concerning cheapening the national currency, terming such the "counsel of folly."

Other Speakers.

Other speakers included James L. D. Kearney, vice-president of the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company, Attorney Thomas Hewes, Alfred W. Tyrol, assistant secretary of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, Attorney Vincent W. Dennis, and Arthur McGinley of the Times.

"Previous to the war," said Governor Cross, "we were moving at a natural pace. There was a gradual technological advancement, but it was moderate. Then came the war, and we had mass production on a tremendous scale. We expanded beyond anything anyone could conceive. The crisis of 1929 was inevitable. We had become a creditor nation instead of a debtor nation. In all previous crises we've come through because we were a debtor nation and were able to pay off our indebtedness with goods. But now we are still conducting our affairs as though we were a debtor nation. We lent money to Europe and were unwilling to take goods in return. We put up tariff walls so that goods would come in only moderate amounts. In 1939 we got almost to an embargo, and no embargo has ever been successful.

"Europe has nothing but goods. We've taken her gold until we possess nearly 50 per cent of the gold in the world. By taking the gold of Europe we have urged nations of that continent to the road of national bankruptcy.

Outlines Danger.

"The danger," continued the governor, "is that when the United States moves away from the gold standard no great nation will have the yardstick for the measurement of the currency of the world. If the United States abandons the gold standard, there may be a temporary improvement, but in the end there can be only chaos.

"What is there to restore confidence now? That is difficult to answer. If either party says 'stand for the gold standard' the credit of the United States, which is at present rather depressed, will return to some extent. Restore confidence and you will restore business to what it once was. It's confidence that is wanting now!"

The following slate of officers for the coming year was presented: president, Maxwell J. Lieberman; first vice-president, John F. Preu; second vice-president, John F. Egan; secretary, C. B. Howard; treasurer, J. F. Strickland; assistant treasurer, S. B. Potter, Jr.; and historian, Wilfred A. Schroeder.

Entertainment Given.

Entertainment was provided by the Whispering Banjos, radio artists, and N. George Martin, tenor, who sang "Come to the Fair" and "Because" to the accompaniment of Miss Dorothy Sumner.

John F. Preu was toastmaster in the absence of Maxwell J. Lieberman, president of the club, who is in a hospital following an automobile accident. The club passed a standing vote to send to Mr. Lieberman a resolution of appreciation for his leadership during the past year and wishes for a speedy recovery.

The Men's Club was organized in 1914 with William H. Barnard, who retired a few years ago after serving the company for more than 50 years, as the first president. It was in that year that the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company was formed and the club derived its name, the Two Hartford's Men's Club, from that company and the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, organized in 1810.

One of the main enterprises of the club is the giving of an annual minstrel show and dance. For the past five years the proceeds of this affair has been divided equally between Camp Courant and the Times Farm funds.

The present board of governors of the club consists of the following: John F. Preu, president; George E. Marsh, Jr., first vice-president; W. Edward Hawley, second vice-president; Leland W. 2 Hartfords Men's Club Has Banquet

Colonel Connor and Major Thebaud Speak at Annual Affair — New Officers Announced

Colonel Michael A. Connor, State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, speaking at the annual banquet of the Men's Club of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company and the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company Wednesday night, urged that the public cooperate with the work of his department and said that a saving of about $20,000 was expected from changes in the system of granting operators licenses to be put into effect shortly. With Major D. E. Thebaud, U. S. A., and Albert W. Keane, sports editor of The Courant, Colonel Connor was one of the principal speakers at the banquet.

Officers of the club for the coming year were announced by John F. Preu, outgoing president, who was toastmaster and master of ceremonies, as follows: George E. Marsh, Jr., president; Sherwood B. Potter, first vice-president; Oletus D. Lyons, second vice-president; James Sheridan, secretary; Fred Simon, treasurer; Bernard Coughlin, assistant treasurer; John F. Preu, adviser to the board; David Blinthead, historian; and Maxwell J. Liberman, publicity representative.

Cooperation Is Urged.

Cooperation on the part of all drivers, and particularly on the part of the 200 members of the Two Hartfords Club whom he addressed, was urged by Mr. Connor in reporting to the Motor Vehicles Department all infringements of the rules of the road which they observe.

Major Thebaud denounced the perennial outcropping of pacifist movements, saying that one of the obligations of citizenship was a proper appreciation of the need for a national defense and a willingness to cooperate.

Mr. Keane, opening the program of guest speakers, recounted a number of his intimate experiences in the sport world, giving particular attention to boxing and boxers, which, he said, attracted more attention and aroused more interest even than our national sport, baseball.

Alfred W. Tyrol, assistant secretary of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, was among the speakers. Other officers of the combined companies attending were: C. D. Goldby, Malcolm Wight, John M. Holmes, Charles C. Kremer, R. C. L. Hamilton and J. Stewart Gilbertson. Mr. Kremer greeted the club for Richard M. Bissell, president of the combined companies, who was unable to attend. Lewis B. Cotting, president of the Aetna Life Men's Club, was a guest at the meeting.

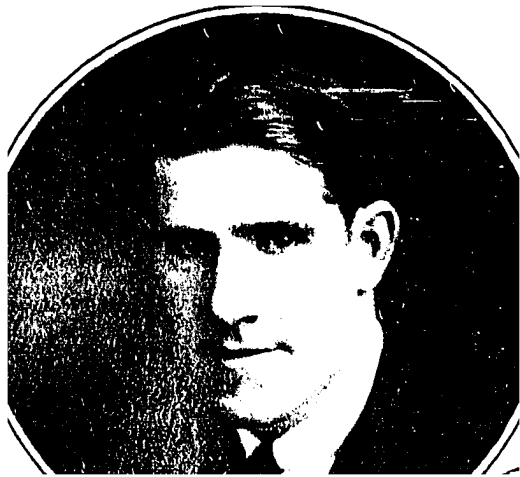

Entertainment consisted of a whistling solo by Elmer Holtz; a vocal solo by Alphonse D. Duhamel; Fred Simon and his magic box; a vocal solo by James W. McGinn. Music was by Mackey's Orchestra with Alderman John Mackey as accompanist.

Daley Receives Pin For Service With 'New Haven'

Passenger Conductor Has Been in Railroad Em- ploy 50 Years

James A. Daley, employed on the "New Haven" road as passenger conductor, was on Saturday, given a 50-year gold, diamond-studded pin by J. P. Doolan, superintendent of the New Haven Division. Mr. Doolan making a trip to Hartford specially for this presentation.

Mr. Daley entered the service of the "New Haven" road on May 4, 1883 as freight trainman, promoted to freight conductor November 12, 1892 and promoted to passenger conductor on June 23, 1903, and is still active as a passenger conductor at the present time in charge of trains between Springfield and New York.

In making the presentation, Mr. Doolan spoke highly of Mr. Daley's long and continuous service and the friends that he had made through his courteous handling of the public with whom he came in contact, as well as with his fellow employees.

A large delegation of friends attended the presentation, expressed good wishes to Mr. Daley and gave him a token of their esteem.

In acknowledging the receipt of this emblem of 50 years of service,

Mr. Daley responded, citing many of his experiences during his long term of service and mentioned especially the friendships which he had cultivated with the traveling public during that long period of years.

Mr. Daley resides at 170 Vine Street, Hartford. Mr. Daley's daughter, Mrs. John Preu, and his four grand children, Roger and John Preu, and Virginia and Dorothy Anderson, were among those at the presentation.

School Board Hotly Argues Salary Rises

Mortensen Says Aldermen
'Bunch of Sunday School' Leaders Compared to That Body

Boucher Resents News Given Out

Five Non-Scheduled Employees Voted Increases,
Bringing Payroll Up
Another $1100

After a session during which William H. Mortensen declared that in so far as politics are concerned, the Board of Aldermen on which he served was "a bunch of Sunday School superintendents in comparison," the Board of Education Wednesday afternoon voted increases in the basic salaries of five non-instructional employees, totaling $1100.

Opposition to the move came from Mrs. G. Gardiner Russell and Mr. Mortensen. Their opposition, they indicated, was based principally on the fact that all non-scheduled employees were not considered.

Tension Throughout.

Tempers were short all during the session and the remarks at times were bordering on the personal. When Mr. Mortensen again offered a resolution rescinding the action of the board in appointing Michael D. Fox an elementary school principal, after the rules committee had reported that it had tabled his previous motion in committee, debate again became emotional. Dr. James J. Boucher, secretary of the Board, and Mrs. Catherine E. Fox, member of the board and wife of Mr. Fox, combined in an attack upon Mr. Mortensen for offering the motion when one of the board's committees had it under consideration.

A tie vote resulted and Saul Berman, president of the board, ruled that the motion was lost. He declined to vote on the question, and refused to answer Mrs. Russell when she asked why he would not vote to break the tie.

News Leaks Irk Boucher.

Nettled by the fact that reports of subcommittee proceedings have appeared in the newspapers before the board has acted upon the recommendations of the committee, Dr. Boucher launched a scathing attack on those who were responsible, but had no success in discovering the source of the leakage. He claimed the sole right to release material to the newspapers, but this was challenged by Roger B. Ladd, who said that in his opinion, committee chairmen have the right to had if he had remained as a high school vice-principal.

In answer to an inquiry by Mrs. Russell, Mr. Vail said that the finance committee had not completed its survey of non-scheduled salaries and that it might have further recommendations at a future meeting.

Justification Raised.

Admitting that he believed an increase for Mr. Keane was justified, Mr. Mortensen nevertheless expressed the hope that "the committee has satisfied its own conscience in this matter," adding that "it strikes me that these names look familiar."

Mrs. Russell said that the Mayor has urged economy, pared down the budget, and that the board has told him it would cooperate. She said that the present move did not look like economy to her. Mr. Mortensen added that "it must be irksome to the committee to attempt to justify these increases."

Mr. Vail spoke up quickly, pointing out that his brother had been cut $1000 a year as a result of consolidation, while the salaries of Mr. Wish and other executives had been increase at the same time.

Flare-up Over Tax.

The next flare-up came when Mr. Mortensen offered his resolution in regard to Mr. Fox. "This situation has been dragging on for eight months without action," he said. "If I were Mr. Fox's best friend I would—"

"You're not his best friend," Mrs. Fox broke in.

"I didn't say I was," replied Mr. Mortensen. "But it is not unreasonable to expect that the board will be able to make up its mind on this matter after eight months has passed. Yet the committee has refused to act and merely tabled my previous resolution."

"The committee has not refused to act," flashed Dr. Boucher. "It is not ready to recommend, and merely tabled the resolution."

Mr. Mortensen replied, declaring that after all this time the Board should not take refuge behind a technicality. "I am not sure that Mr. Fox has not legal action against the board, which appointed him, for his salary," he contended.

On the vote Mortensen, Ladd, Mrs. Russell and Mrs. Mary M. Hooker voted to rescind the previous action; Mr. Vail, Dr. Boucher, Mrs. Fox and Mrs. Eleanor B. Kennelly voting against.

Pension Approved.

The board voted to appoint John D. Preu teacher of art, and assigned him to the Burr Junior High School, succeeding Mrs. Irene Kern Fagen, who resigned after marriage. Retirement with pension was voted to Miss Harriet B. Bramley of West Middle School, for 32 years a teacher in Hartford; Sherwood B. Doolittle, teacher of industrial arts, with 18 years of service in Hartford; Wenna L. Smith, seventh grade teacher at New Park Avenue school, 36 years a teacher here; Katherine L. Hills, physical education teacher at HPHS, with 38 years of experience here; Mary Cady, Dwight School second grade teacher, 32 years experience; Frederick L. Tapley, HPHS teacher, 18½ years in Hartford.

The resignations of Mrs. Doris L. Patterson of West Middle School and Mrs. Anne P. Hendricks of Northwest School, were accepted.

make public the proceedings of their committees, if they see fit.

The five employees receiving salary increases were N. B. Hansen, former purchasing clerk, named assistant purchasing agent and his basic salary was increased $200 a year to $2500; Robert E. Vail, who was promoted from stock clerk to manager of supply department, and granted an increase of $400 a year to $2150; Peter W. Rago, a truck driver, granted an increase of $100 to $1350 annually; Thomas Keane, maintenance foreman, increased $200 to $2500 annually; and Amos C. Hoyt, director of research and statistics, increased $200 to $4500 annually. All of these salaries are subject to the 5 per cent reduction from base, and all are retroactive to April 1.

Refers to Married Teachers.

Mrs. Russell precipitated the discussion on this question when she asked if provision had been made for the increases in the budget. "We were supposed to be so strapped that we had to dismiss married teachers in order to economize," she said, "and here we find it necessary to add $1100 to other salaries."

Mr. Ladd, reporting for the committee, explained that the committee believed that in fairness to these employees, most of whom had been employed on an experimental basis in their present capacity, should receive salaries more in line with their responsibilities.

Mr. Mortensen asked if the increases had been recommended by the superintendent or the business manager.

Explains Hoyt's Case.

Mr. Ladd thought that he recalled that Superintendent Fred D. Wish, Jr., had recommended a rise for Mr. Hoyt. He did not recall whether the other increases had been recommended. Mr. Wish, called upon to explain, said that he had told the committee that he did not think it would be a good year to make a change in unscheduled salaries because of the unrest it would cause in the scheduled classifications. He did say, he admitted, that if the matter was to be considered, he thought Mr. Hoyt should receive an increase, since by transfer to the administrative staff he has not received the increase he would have

Insurance Co. Marks 25th Anniversary

Fine Record Achieved by Hartford Accident and Indemnity Pointed Out at Monday Celebration

BY A. E. MAGNELL

Congratulations of the state and city and the parent company were extended to Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company Monday afternoon at a "family" gathering. The occasion was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the company. Richard M. Bissell, chairman of the board of Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company and president of the Hartford Fire, the parent company, was present and met office associates for the first time in several months. Fully recovered from the illness that stricken him at Asheville, N. C., last November, his presence and congratulations almost overshadowed the birthday celebration, which was held in the rotunda. A gigantic birthday cake was lighted by 25 candles.

Mr. Bissell congratulated employees for their part in having built the company to such substantial structure. The smallest of companies 25 years ago. It is now one of the two or three strongest in the accident and casualty fields. The company has been built on the same foundation as its parent, and Mr. Bissell added that perhaps it owes some of its strength to a fine parent. Among those present, he pointed out, were many who had been with the Hartford Accident since its inception. He presented Governor Cross with a piece of the cake, which he had cut.

Cross, Spellacy Speak.

Governor Cross extended congratulations of the state and briefly referred to the pride which the state has in the insurance industry of which the Hartford Accident and Indemnity is representative. From the many faces he observed, it seemed difficult to imagine that many had served the company so long and expressed the hope, and expectation that many would serve another 25 years. "Mr. Bissell and I have served three times 25 years, so they could hardly look for 25 more," said the Governor.

In his introduction of Mayor Spellacy, representing Hartford, Mr. Bissell recalled that the first president of Hartford Fire, Thomas Williams, was then mayor of Hartford and thus it was appropriate now to have the present mayor in attendance. Mayor Spellacy recalled that when the company was organized Hartford had a Republican mayor. Then they would have cut their cake and eaten it. Today, he said, the Republicans cut the cake and the Democrats eat it, referring to the party affiliations of the governor and his own. He also added that if they wanted another mayor for president he would be glad to consider it.

Paul Rutherford, president of Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company, was in the ceremonial group.

The rotunda, where the cake-cutting ceremony was held, was filled with spectators, and many had points of vantage in the upper gallery.

A mass of flowers, the equal of which has seldom been seen in Hartford, was arranged in the rotunda and in the corridors.

Keep Open House.

Hartford Accident and Indemnity kept open house throughout the afternoon, employees cordially greeting visitors, of whom there were many. Members of the New York office staff included George T. Merrick, associate manager; William A. Earle, associate manager and general attorney; William J. McCarthy, manager of the burglary department; A. J. Keith, special agent; Anna Pritchard, supervisor of the stenographic department; Audley Brindley, assistant superintendent of claims; Mae Reis, chief telephone operator, and A. A. Arnurius, supervising engineer.

President Rutherford and other officers of the company received individual greetings from the men in the field. President Rutherford received two typical cowboy hats—a miniature bearing a date "1913" and a "Ride 'Em, Cowboy" and a five-gallon Stetson, bearing a date "1938" and a line "An Outstanding Record." They were sent by Houston, Bevan and Stevenson, company representatives at Houston, Texas.

While the party was primarily a "family" affair, executives of Hartford companies called in person to offer congratulations and best wishes. Bankers and editors of Hartford newspapers were also present. Publishers of the leading insurance trade publications also had representatives present.

Starting from scratch 25 years ago, the company finished its first year with $1,552,266 of admitted assets and these had grown to $68,264,380 as of December 31, 1937. The initial capital was $750,000 and this has been increased since to $3,000,000. The surplus account has grown from $739,452 to $15,000,000 and in addition the company now has a voluntary reserve of $5,172,847, nothing having been shown in the first statement. Net premiums have grown from $59,344 the first year to $38,462,342 in 1937.

The Hartford Accident and Indemnity will hold a production forum at White Sulphur Springs October 2, 4 and 5 with representatives present from the agency organization. The committee, which is handling the birthday celebration to be held by the men in the field, will meet here in August to select representatives and the choice will be based on production ideas submitted to the home office and on the basis of past and current records in the respective agencies.

Members of the reception committee from the Hartford's home office staff Monday are the following: Marion A. Collins, chairman; Mrs. Hester Baldwin, Bernard J. Coughlin, Flora L. Crooks, president Two Hartfords Girls Club; Jere J. Flynn, Polly L. Hale, Franklyn E. Hills, C. B. Howard, President Men's Club; Arthur M. Kelting, May C. McCormick, Marjorie V. McGinn, Donald MacKinnon, Charlotta Oppen, John F. Preu, Etta Sharfman, Richard H. Spencer.

Members of the agents committee in charge of the birthday celebration among the company's field organization are: Carl A. S. Lawton, chairman, president Lawton-

Byrne-Bruner Insurance Agency Company, St. Louis, Mo.; Walter B. Allen, Allen, Russell and Allen, Hartford; J. C. Bogardus, Jr., president, William Wilson Company, Pasadena, Calif.; Carl H. Hennrich, president, Carl H. Hennrich, Inc., Rochester, N. Y.; George M. Lang, Cresson, Pa.; Thomas Gresham Redden, Thomas Gresham Redden, Inc., Greensboro, N. C.; John S. Skinner, Princeton, Ill.

McLevy Cuts GOP Plurality To Lowest

Cross, With 2987, Draws
Least Votes Since 1930;
Baldwin Receives 6263;
Bridgeporter 4548

West Hartford

Receiving startling support in West Hartford, Mayor Jasper McLevy of Bridgeport, Socialist candidate for governor, slashed the Republican gubernatorial plurality in this town to the lowest in the past 20 years. Governor Cross drew his lowest vote here since his first contest for the governorship in 1930.

The vote for governor follows: Governor Cross, 2987; Raymond E. Baldwin, Republican, 6263, and Mayor McLevy, 4548.

Results would indicate that there was a defection of 2643 from the Baldwin vote to McLevy and 589 from Governor Cross to McLevy. The conclusions are drawn from the differences between the gubernatorial totals and those for registrars of voters. The remainder of the McLevy support came from straight Socialist votes.

Russell Z. Johnston, Republican candidate for judge of probate, drew 10,153 votes in West Hartford, believed to be a record for any single candidate in this town. He defeated Edward F. Ahern, Democrat, who drew 2617 votes, by 7536 votes, also believed to be a record majority or plurality.

United States Senator Augustine Lonergan ran ahead of his Democratic constituents, securing 3655 votes as against 8621 for John A. Danaher, Republican, who ran behind his ticket in this town, despite predictions to the contrary.

Congressman Herman P. Kopplemann failed to keep up the margin amassed by Lonergan, receiving 3233 votes against 9163 for his opponent, William J. Miller, who, besides Mr. Johnston, was the only Republican candidate to get more than 9000 votes.

Governor Cross Vote.

In 1930, Governor Cross received 2789 votes in West Hartford. Two years later, his vote reached 4034, while in 1934, the figure went to 4359. Two years ago, Governor Cross drew 5707 votes, his record in West Hartford. As previously stated, his vote Tuesday was 2987, or only 200 greater than eight years ago.

McLevy Grows Stronger.

Mr. McLevy did not reach his peak of popularity in West Hartford until Tuesday. His name was on every tongue. In various quarters was heard, "the Republicans and Democrats will be surprised," "McLevy is in (as governor)," "Let us clean out the old political machines," "We will see if the people can't cut." Early Tuesday afternoon, it was learned from reliable sources that 30 per cent of the 200 absentee ballots were for McLevy and that the defection was greater from the Republican voters than Democrats.

Voting Deliberate.

Voting in West Hartford was deliberate. Many grim visaged voters drew the curtains of the voting machines and took their time in casting their vote. In observing the voting, one gained the impression that five out of nine voters were cutting.

Tabulations over all keys indicated that cutting occurred all along the line, but the office of probate judge, governor, United States senator and congressman took the brunt of cutting. The candidates for lieutenant governor also saw their votes cut down by the Socialist candidate.

The electorate appeared to be an enlightened one as to how to operate the machines. There seemed to be less hesitation and need for assistance from the election moderators. Little difficulty was experienced by the electors. In one instance, three women complained that they could not cut for McLevy. The registrars adjusted this situation by demonstrating that the voters had not cut out the Cross or Baldwin keys before attempting to record their McLevy vote.

Record Off-Year Vote.

With a total of 90 per cent of all registered voters turning out to pull levers and snap switches, West Hartford in an exceptionally large vote for a non-presidential year. 14,101 voters out of 15,860 eligible recorded their choices for the various offices.

In the last presidential year, 1936, 14,411 or 96 per cent of the total number registered, 15,076, voted. In 1934, an off-presidential year, with 13,399 registered, only 11,569, or 83 per cent of the total actually exercised the right to vote.

Below is a list of the numbers registered in each district, and of those who actually voted: District 1, Precinct 1, 1890 registered, 1719 voted; Precinct 2, 1134 registered, 1021 voted; District 2, Precinct 1, 1055 registered, 959 voted; Precinct 2, 1267 registered, 1137 voted; District 3, 1528 registered, 1307 voted; District 4, 1442 registered, 1243 voted; District 5, Precinct 1, 1536 registered, 1367 voted; Precinct 2, 950 registered, 845 voted; District 6, 1633 registered, 1453 voted; Precinct 2, 796 registered, 724 voted; District 7, Precinct 1, 884 registered, 774 voted, Precinct 2, 1770 registered, 1552 voted.

Political Statements.

Commenting on the election results, Chairman John T. Dunn, Jr., of the Republican Town Committee said, "I feel that the splendid organization that each district had, and the willingness of volunteer workers to help their organization is responsible for the splendid showing made by the Republicans here. I wish to thank them and the voters who voted the Republican ticket."

Chairman Basil P. Fitzpatrick of the Democratic Town Committee said, "The results show that the Republicans of the state and town are dead and don't know it. Certainly, it wasn't a Republican victory in West Hartford. And I predict that the day is not far distant when there will be a greater defection in the Republican majority. The Democrats will forge ahead. They can't hold us back."

Compilation of Voting.

A cross-section of the vote in West Hartford is shown in the following compilations. It is shown that the vote for the Union, Socialist-Labor, Communist and Labor factions was negligible, though the Union party gave Baldwin 116 more votes, to bring his West Hartford total to 6379.

Results of the state and town election in West Hartford follow:

Craftwork And Art On Exhibition

Large Display of Articles Shown at Morgan Memorial by Local Club and State Society

Several hundred examples of arts-and-craftwork from all over the state went on view Saturday afternoon at the Morgan Memorial museum, when the Arts and Crafts Club of Hartford, aided by the Society of Connecticut Craftsmen, opened their exhibition with a tea.

In addition to members of the Club and the Society, independent craftsmen and women are also taking part in the display. In both the fields represented and the variety within each group, this is one of the most diverse and interesting exhibitions of its kind the city has seen in some time. Weaving, loom-ing and the decoration of textile and fabrics seems to be the most favored of the state's handicrafts, for these departments are far and away the most profusely represented. Metal working, ranging from cast bronzes to fragile jewelry, is perhaps next best represented. It is augmented very much by the amount of heavier metal-wrighting shown, including such items as reproductions of Colonial hardware together with numerous original fixtures.

While these are the two main categories, there are many other fields of work being shown, including woodworking in several forms — furniture-making in life and miniature sizes, woodcarving, decoration of authentic antiques from the cabinetmaker's craft; pottery in the form of useful and decorative ware; decoration of tin and glass ware; frame-making for pictures and mirrors; enamelling and leather working; book binding, painting and sculpture.

Textiles.

There is a profusion of articles in the loom-ing and decorating of textiles, as has been said. There is a wide array of woven materials in the form of runners, scarfs, belts, towels and bags, potholders, mats and rugs both original and in reproduction. The variety of design and richness of color, as well as the deftness of weaving, make this an outstanding exhibit. There are even samples of hand loomed suitings. And in the allied department of decorated textiles, the same imagination and artistry are to be found in tied-and-dyed scarfs, kerchiefs, smocks and hangings, in the block-printed hangings, throws, and other ornamental and utility cloths, and in the numerous examples of various needle and applique techniques.

Exhibiting in these fields are Frances Freeman, Hartford; The Walden Weavers, Canterbury; Myra F. Clark, Middletown; L. P. Hochspeier, Woodbury; Marian W. Freethy, Waterbury; Hobby House Handcrafters, Bloomfield; Mabel E. Clark, Hartford; Alice C. Trumbull, Middletown; Mrs. Lyman B. Burnett, West Hartford; Mrs. Gertrude D. Thompson, Hartford; Tillie Tillinghast, Vernon; Vida Jopson, West Hartford; Josephine Davis, Somers; Janice M. Brown, Berlin; Mrs. L. F. Hocking, Hartford; The Blue Door, New Hartford; Louise A. King, West Hartford; Charlotte H. Segur; Mrs. R. J. Leighton, Winsted; Miriam Spicer, Providence, R. I.; Martha Rovette, Hartford; Lillie E. Breitwieser, Westport.

Metal-Working Diverse.

Also attracting great attention are the diverse forms of metal-working. In the department of fine metals, there are several cabinets of jewelry and flatware. The jewelry includes all types of personal ornaments in silver and gold, and mounted precious and semi-precious stones. This is a prolific array, and exhibits almost any variety of technique of flatware for table services, done in silver in modern patterns.

In the utility metals are items in pewter, copper and aluminum — dishes and implements, desk sets, ashtrays (some enamelled), a large copper treasure-chest with enamel medallion, sconces and allied holders, smoking articles, and many others.

Bronze Figures.

Under the head of art, rather than crafts, can be listed a number of bronzes, figures, heads and medallions.

Of the heavier utility metals, iron-wrighting and bronze-moulding offer many articles such as candle-brackets and sconces, flower pot and plant fixtures, metal signs of an ornamental nature, reproductions of Colonial lighting fixtures such as lanterns, and other items.

Those displaying metal objects including jewelry and silver, are G. S. Malcarne, Essex; the Gaylord Farm craftsmen; Huntington Lee, Bethany; Carl Barth of Hartford; Frances Felton, Winsted; Martha Pasco, Hartford; Rebecca Field, West Hartford; Jane Dresser, Hartford; Berthe Burke, Boston; Frances Steane, West Hartford; Ruth S. Cloyes, Hartford; John D. Preu, E. W. Bernhart, Winsted; John Bassett, Hartford.

Woodworking Display.

In the general field of woodworking, one of the most rewarding displays, and one receiving considerable attention, is that of the work of the late George R. Goodwin of this city. It includes a variety of figure carvings, two intricately worked candlesticks, a carved bellows and plaques. Inlaid wood objects are also to be seen by Miss Pasco. Then there are examples of the cabinet-maker's art, original and reproductions of furniture, large and tiny. Carved mirror and picture frames are being exhibited, too.

Closely allied are the decorative appliques on reproductions of Colonial furniture, as well as on original antiques. There are chairs, trays and other items in tinware, bellows.

Exhibitors in these two fields, in addition to those already mentioned, include G. B. Robbins, Willington; Alice Brinsmade, Windsor; Crossways Studio, Hampton; Thomas M. Beldon, Danbury; Donn Sheets, Hartford; Charles Ormsby, Windsor.

The pottery display is small but very attractive and includes work by C. Louise Williams, Hartford; Mary C. Wheeler, Granby.

Decorated glassware is attractively displayed by Mrs. Elizabeth M. Stoddard.

Leather Exhibition.

Paramount in the leather display is the exhibition of fine bindings by Howard Penrose of Hartford, nationally known craftsman in this field. Mrs. Theodore H. Piper is also showing an elaborately tooled leather desk pad.

Paintings are being shown by Cornelle C. Vetter, Margaret Nelson, N. Ross Parke, Mrs. Bryant Blood (miniatures), William Bradford Greene, Sr., Dorothy Hapgood, Louise J. Penrose, Jessie Goodwin Preston, Dale Munson, Howard Penrose, Muriel Alvord, Cortland Butler and Eleanor Stoll.

Those who aided in arranging the show are Miss Field, Miss Dresser, Miss Williams, Mrs. Cortland Butler, Miss Stoll and Mrs. Preston.

The exhibition will be open all week through Saturday, with the exception of Monday, when the museum is closed, and Thanksgiving.

Fire Dept. Educational Program Set

Drive Arranged as Part of National Prevention Week; Station Houses Open to Public

West Hartford

In conjunction with National Fire Prevention Week, beginning Monday, the West Hartford Fire Department will launch its most complete educational program since the fire districts were consolidated in 1936.

As an unusual feature, Fire Chief Donnelly said Saturday night that all station houses would be open to public inspection. Firemen will show visitors throughout the buildings, and explain how an alarm is answered, from the moment the call comes in at the central switchboard at headquarters on Brace Road, until the apparatus rolls toward its designation.

"Few residents realize the time and effort that is spent in building up an organization that insures them against fire losses," Chief Donnelly explained, "the routine of firefighting is never the same, except in the periodic grassfires, and even treatment of these varies from time to time. It might be interesting to citizens to see for themselves the complete educational training that a fireman must have before going out on the apparatus. The department welcomes any person to make a personal tour of any station-house during the coming week."

Fire Prevention.

More than 3000 questionnaires, containing 22 items, will be distributed to school children this week. Pupils will be asked to take the questionnaires home and have their parents fill out answers to the questions. After these are returned, firemen will study the answers, and in many cases will visit homes to assist residents in ridding their houses of fire hazards, if the residents request such a service.

The quarter-annual building inspections will take place this week also, when firemen will go through buildings in various business districts to see that fire hazards are removed.

Fire prevention motion pictures will be shown in nearly all schools, and inspectors will lecture during regular auditorium periods.

Art League Opens.

The West Hartford Art League will begin its 1940-41 season Monday. Eight branches of art will be taught at the League's studios on Mountain Road.

Walter Korder, well known Connecticut artist, opens classes Monday in portrait oils, still life, and landscapes. On Tuesday Dale Monson teaches still life, and landscapes in oil, while Rebecca Field will instruct modelling and pottery. Mr. Korder will also teach Tuesday. Wednesday's classes are in charge of N. Ross Parke for elementary and advanced work in oils, and John Preu for metal work and jewelry. Thursday Mr. Korder teaches life drawing, and on Saturday Estelle Coniff teaches water colors for adults and children.

Craftsmen Open Show For Public

Exhibit at Donchian's Features Handicraft as Means of Livelihood and Relaxation

Connecticut craftsmen put their wares on sale and exhibit Thursday in the Donchian Rug Company showrooms, 205 Pearl Street.

Sponsored by the Society of Connecticut Craftsmen, the sale is designed not only to promote craftsmanship as the source of livelihood but as a needed mental relaxation. It will continue today and Saturday.

Noticeable is the small amount of metal work, due to the wartime metal shortage. Everything from Christmas cards to hooked rugs and copies of Chippendale mirrors to silver eagle pins can be found, however.

Among the exhibitors is William Resnesky, Polish immigrant who makes brown wicker baskets with handles, just right for marketing. Mr. Resnesky supports himself by making these for his East Haddam farmer neighbors.

Gay Woven Belts.

Mrs. George W. Barhydt of 80 Wethersfield Avenue, has woven purses and belts for sale. The belts are in gala colors and made on an inkle loom. Another exhibitor is Mrs. Gertrude W. Adams of 47 Main Street, who Thursday was wearing one example of her handiwork, a multi-colored crocheted hat.

Among the few samples of iron work were door knockers and handles made by Lawrence Collins of Farmington, a blacksmith who came to Connecticut from New Hampshire a few years ago. His shop is an old schoolhouse. When the war came he converted his shop principally to the manufacture of small tools. Now he is working in a war factory.

Another who has contributed metal work is John Preu of 368 Vine Street, Hartford, handicraft instructor in Weaver High School who not only works with metals but is a painter in oils and water colors. Among the samples of the woodworker's craft are covered jars fashioned by A. L. Davis of Waterbury from single pieces of apple wood.

Weaver High Junior Prom Is Colorful

The Junior Class of Weaver High School recently presented its annual Junior Prom. The theme of the Prom was the Home Garden of America.

The entire ballroom (otherwise known as the Weaver Gym) was decorated along those lines. The walls were lined with flowers and evergreens and little white fences, which gave a quaint garden effect. Along one wall was a latticed garden complete with bird and bird bath. Just above this little enclosure there was an American flag, constructed of red, white, and blue flowers. The flag was spotlighted and stood out above all the decorations at the Prom.

The lights were low, the music was soft, and as Sailor Bob Tyler '44 sang I Dream Of You, many guys and girls were drifting out of this world.

As the Grand March, led by chairman Elsie Colandro '46 and "Click" Ciccone '45, passed a garden pool used as a wishing well in the south-east corner of the gym, the boys tossed in coins and the girls made the wishes. The Proceeds from the Wishing Well went to the fund for the Blind Soldier's Pool at Avon. The sum of $28.70 was collected in the wishing well due to the generosity of those attending the dance.

The general committee was assisted by Vice-Principal Faith Talcott, Miss Geraldine Squarey, and John Preu of the Art Department.

The music was supplied by Bob Cagenello's Downbeats, a band composed mostly of Weaver students.

Feild Scores 'Illiteracy' In Art Circles

Tulane Man Deplores Situation During Talk To Teachers Group

The "illiteracy" of the present day art world was scored by a Tulane University art director at the fall meeting of the Connecticut Arts Association here Friday.

Robert D. Feild, who is director of the school of art of the Sophie Newcombe Memorial College at Tulane University, stated there no longer are standards for judgment in the art world.

Miss Genevieve D. Anderson, art supervisor, Hartford public schools, was chairman of the session, which included a business meeting of the association, a luncheon in the Tapestry Hall of the museum and the opening of an exhibition of drawings, paintings and crafts by Connecticut art instructors in the Avery print rooms.

Speakers included C. C. Cunningham, director of Wadsworth Atheneum; Miss Esther I. Seaver of the atheneum; and L. John G. Wenner, assistant professor of art at Teachers College of Connecticut at New Britain.

During the business session a committee was chosen to compile information on art schools to be available to students who plan to continue their art education and desire such information.

Members of the committee are: Miss Mayo Sorgman, Stamford, chairman; Miss Ruth Judson, Fairfield; Miss Jennie Olsson, New Britain; Miss Margaret Triplett, Norwich; Miss Hope Henderson, West Hartford; Miss Myrtle Sherman, Wethersfield, and Miss Wilma B. Keyes, Storrs.

Single Truck Tackles Job Of Collection

Effort Being Made To Reduce Five Day Rubbish Collection

West Hartford

A single rubbish collection truck and crew went on the job in Sunday morning's snowstorm in a holiday effort to reduce the five days accumulation of residential rubbish resulting from a walk out Tuesday of disposal crews seeking a pay raise.

A second truck and crew slated to go out was prevented by the stormy weather according to Town Manager Rodney L. Loomis. "Considering the going I am surprised and pleased that any of the men went out to work," said Mr. Loomis.

Not a single picket appeared at the Prospect Avenue garage where town-owned trucks are housed. Two picket lines were maintained there Saturday by the striking workmen.

Two trucks and crews collected rubbish Saturday and Mr. Loomis said he expects that two "and maybe three" trucks and crews will return to the job this morning. He said the early part of the day will be used to complete collection of rubbish which would have normally been collected last Tuesday. Then the crews will tackle those neighborhoods where barrels and containers were placed on the curbs for collection last Wednesday.

Nine Point Program Drawn.

The Executive Board of the Elmwood Veterans Club, Inc., Sunday adopted a nine point program for 1948 which will be presented to members for approval at the January 27 meeting. Attorney Samuel Tallow announced.

In its program for the coming year, the club plans to sponsor a series of Saturday night dances designed for teen-agers since the board feels the need for such an activity in the community is important. These dances will be held in addition to the Spring Dance and the Harvest Dance held by the club.

Plans for the intensification of work on the building fund were made. The club will attempt to erect a building with an auditorium and several meeting rooms which will be available to all groups in the community.

Other items on the years agenda are: the annual carnival; formation of a drama group; a drive to recruit woman veterans; formation of a woman's auxiliary for members' wives or girl friends.

The group will also start a series of forums at which prominent speakers will discuss current topics. They will also attempt to aid the housing problem in West Hartford by either formulating a program or working with the town committee to draw up a program. Plans will be made for an outing.

The executive Board will meet Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. at the club headquarters to study and amend the present constitution.

Groups Will Discuss Plan Of Memorial

Proposed Community Building To Be Studied At Meeting March 1

West Hartford

Representatives appointed from nearly 30 civic, fraternal, social and church groups in West Hartford will meet at the Town Hall March 1 to discuss a proposed community building war memorial.

A concrete proposal for a structure to house a gymnasium, meeting rooms, auditorium, bowling alleys, swimming pool and meeting rooms, at a cost "under a million dollars," will be put forth by Percival W. Lucas, former town councilman. He is acting for a volunteer group of 15 West Hartford businessmen from 10 civic organizations.

The group was spontaneously formed last November 13 to revive the community building idea which was tabled by the outgoing Town Council a year ago. The new Council has not acted on the recommendation of the War Memorial Committee, headed by Town Manager Rodney Loomis, which called for a less elaborate community center. There were many divergent views among the civic and social groups of the town, at that time, about the nature and location of the community building.

"Nearly all of these differences have now been ironed out," Mr. Lucas said Saturday. "The committee of 15 which got together last Fall finally came to full agreement on a building which we feel will be a fitting memorial to the service men and women of all wars, will fulfill the cultural and indoor recreation needs of the Town, particularly among the younger people, and will provide a meeting place and permanent headquarters for the various veteran, service, cultural and civic organizations.

Many Approve Idea.

"We have, during the past two weeks, discussed this whole project in detail with a great many of the organizations in all sections of Town. Nearly all of them have unanimously approved the idea of a community building as a war memorial and we don't think the thing will bog down this time because of differences about the type of building, where it is to be put, and so forth," Mr. Lucas said.

At the meeting the group hopes to get agreement on the aims of the memorial and a method of financing it that will be supported by the people as a whole. The committee of 15, in discussing the project with other groups, has suggested a bond issue which would cost the town about $100,000 a year for 20 years.

"At the present rate of our budget, this would be an increase of about 3 per cent in our tax rate to provide a cultural, sports and community center than many folks feel is badly needed," Mr. Lucas said.

"We have learned from experiences in other towns that the running expenses of a community center can be met from very small fees for the use of its facilities, but in this proposal we have not counted on that revenue. If the Town Council should decide to operate it on that basis, up to $40,000 a year might be realized. We believe also that individuals and groups may wish to contribute to the furnishing of the building, and perhaps even to its original construction."

Architect Lester B. Scheide, a veteran, has prepared detailed plans upon which the committee of 15 has agreed. The proposal is for a red brick Colonial building in conformity with other town buildings. The committee suggests that it be put up on property now owned or purchased by the town.

The basement provides for a standard-size swimming pool, a banquet hall and kitchen, a lounge, a game room, locker rooms and showers and bowling alleys.

Rooms For Clubs.

The first floor is entered through a columned portico into an airy lobby. A meditation room is on the left where parents and others may wish to come on such occasions as the anniversary of a son's death in combat. Headquarters rooms, to be assigned to veteran, civic and service clubs, are on this floor, along with a 2000-seat gymnasium. The main feature of the second floor is a permanent-seated 1000 capacity auditorium.

Mr. Lucas said that out of the meeting may come a permanent organization to carry the project along through stages of presentation to the Town Council and the people. On bond issues of this size, he feels that a referendum may be desirable, but that the first stage is to bring the opinion of the tax payers to the Council.

The group of 15 which first met on November 13 included Frederick Andrews, Clarence A. Boyce, Lee Burgess, Kimberly Cheney, Stuart Dolan, Lou Eberts, Charles Henry, Jay Hilborn, William Jones, Mr. Lucas, George Schilke, Jr., Joseph Simons, Joseph Vercelli, Kenneth Walker, and Elisha Wattles.

WEAVER GIRLS GYM EXHIBIT—Highlights of the recent sport night staged by the girls of Weaver High School in which Blue and Green teams vied for sporting honors in this annual affair. A tableau symbolized the spirit of sport as presented by girls of the Green team (upper left) upon their entrance to the hall. Girls of the Blue team (upper right) formed symmetrical designs upon the hall floor as they made their entrance and featured a chariot with pseudo Amazons parading through the gym. Cheering on their teammates during a race (lower left) are several members of the Green team. A human pyramid is formed by Blue team members (lower right) as part of their contribution. Weaver High School Girls Present Fourth Annual Sport Night Event

BY ROSEMARIE CASSARA.
Weaver High School girls recently participated in the Fourth Annual Sport Night. Each year members of the girls Physical Education classes join either the Blue or Green teams for a competitive program between the two teams. Because 1948 is Olympic year, Greek games was this year's theme.

For their entrance, members of the Blue team formed four interlocking circles with a disc thrower in the center of each. Anita Pellettier, captain of the team was drawn around the floor of the gymnasium in a chariot with Leader Corps members acting as horses.

Green team girls formed an olive wreath which encircled the throne of their captain, Joy Kapitke. Also on the throne were girls holding discs and javelins. The Green team won the entrance.

Chairman of Sport Night was Joan Leamy, a member of the Girls' Leader Corps. Joan welcomed the parents and friends of the girls and the faculty to Sport Night. She also was master of ceremonies of the program.

After Captain Kapitke challenged Captain Pellettier, both teams took the Olympic Oath.

Because the Green team defeated the Blue in the Torch Race, its captain lighted the "eternal" lamp such as was lighted during the Greek Olympics.

Next, the teams competed in cheers and lyrics which were composed by members of the teams. This event was won by the Blue team.

Both teams participated in badminton, volley ball, bowling, and ping pong. The Green team succeeded in winning them.

Exercises for body and mind coordination were next on the program. The Blue team scored highest in this competition.

The Green team won Tumbling and stunts. The girls taking part in this also formed pyramids.

Square dance, which was next on the program, was won by the Blue team.

Dress the Dummy was an exciting part of the program. Co-captains of the teams were the dummies. The Blue team captured the points in this race.

The last competitive race on the program was Basketball. The team of the Greens defeated the team of the Blues.

The Blue team also won for their decoration of the gymnasium.

Members of the Girls' Leader Corps, who assist Physical Education teacher, Miss Eleanor Whitney, in gym classes took part in a drill. The girls used luminous painted batons which shone in the dark during the Drill. After this Jeanne Anderson, president of the Corps, presented the Girls' Leader Corps emblems to those girls who have served in the Corps for at least one year and special certificates to those who served during their three years at Weaver.

Chairman Joan Leamy then presented Miss Whitney, who announced a tie between the teams. With an olive wreath, symbol of victory, she crowned Joy Kapitke, captain of the Green team and Anita Pellettier, captain of the Blue team. Anita, in a spontaneous movement, took the wreath from her own head and placed it on Miss Whitney.

In the absence of Superintendent of Schools, Fred D. Wish, Jr., Joseph E. Gargan, director of health and physical education, announced the scores and presented a plaque to the tied teams.

In closing the program the 1949 captains were introduced by this year's captains. Isabelle Cecere is captain of the Blue team and Rita Howell captain of the Green.

Chairmen of the different events for both teams were Entrance, (B) Irene Choynick, (G) Jeanne Anderson; Lyrics, (B) Delores Angelo, (G) Leonie Katz; Games, (B) Isabelle Cecere, (G) Rita Howell; Tumbling, (B) Joan Bartlett, (G) Dorothy Clark; Decorations (B) Jean McGowan, (G) Nancy Lasker; Dance, (B) Ruth Frosh, (G) Jeanne Callahan; Exercise, (B) Lucy Martin, (G) Joy Kapitke; Basketball, (B) Mary Myers, (G) Evelyn Fennelly; Torch Race, (B) Barbara Reich, (G) Irene Perry; and Dress the Dummy, (B) Barbara Hayes, (G) Marilyn Dignan.

Art Colony Day Draws Students From Hartford to Manchester High

JENNIFER ROWLEY.

"Art Colony Day" in the true spirit of the colonies of artists who gather to exchange ideas and to stimulate their talent, was held Wednesday afternoon, January 19, at Manchester High School.

Representatives and advisers from the art clubs at Weaver,

Hartford Public, Bulkeley, and East Hartford High schools came to participate in the afternoon festivities.

A general meeting was held in the Manchester Art Studio when the students and advisers arrived. At this time one member of each school's club gave a brief survey of the program carried out in their school. The meeting was then adjourned so that the colonies might enjoy a figure and still-life drawing period in the school library and on the school campus. Following this hour of work and play, the artists gathered in the studio, where the tables and chairs had been arranged in cafe-style, for refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, and hot chocolate with marshmallow topping. The colony day was brought to a close with an exhibition of the art work accomplished during the drawing and painting hour. Ribbons were presented to those students with whose work the judges were most impressed.

The Figure Drawing ribbons were presented to Rita Howell of Weaver High, first prize; Nina Richloft of Hartford High, second prize; and William Dahms of East Hartford High, third prize. Arthur Reichentack of Manchester High received first prize for his still life painting; Marilyn Hainsey of Weaver High, second and Audrey Bennett of East Hartford High, third.

Miss Genevieve Anderson, art supervisor in Hartford; Miss Geraldin Squarey, Hartford Public High School adviser, and John Preu, Weaver High School adviser were judges for the exhibition. The art Colony Day committees consisted of the Manchester art club members and officers, Alice Maria, president; Pat Halloran, vice president; June Chambers, secretary; and Thelma Peace, treasurer, under the leadership of their faculty adviser, Miss Hope S. Henderson.

The Art Colony Day, an innovation in the high school world, proved to be a great success and plans for future colony days are being formulated.

Visitors See How Pottery Is Produced

Art Demonstrated at Scholastic Exhibit; Jewelry Making Today

Students from Norwich, New Haven, Stratford and Hartford and visitors from the Sixty Club of the Union Settlement, plowed through the snow to take a look at The Courant Parade of Youth-Scholastic Regional Art Exhibit Monday.

Four students from Norwich Free Academy gave a demonstration of pottery making. Margaret Triplett, art director of the Academy, who accompanied the students, said that art is emphasized at her school and that fabric design and pottery making are specialties there. She explained that many years ago, the board of trustees of the academy thought that a textile city should bend every effort to provide as fine a school of textile design as the community could afford.

Proud of Work.

"We are proud of our students and their work in textile design," Miss Triplett said. "We wish, though, we could find a greater commercial outlet for some of the talent we have helped to develop."

Among the visitors showing particular interest in the Norwich pottery demonstration were Mrs. Walter Rafferty and John Johnson. They attended the exhibit. Mrs. Rafferty explained, for members of The Sixty Club of the Union Settlement. She said that club members at the settlement were interested in pottery making and that she and Mr. Johnson were "picking up a few ideas" that might prove useful to club members.

The pottery makers at the show Monday included Walter Kurasz, Stanley Kimpesta, Janet Stalker and Henry Gernhard. The pupils also were accompanied by their teacher, Theodora Goberis and her assistant, Miss Beth Wood.

Today's practical demonstration will be given by students from Weaver High School. It will take place at the exhibit, in the Hartford Gas Company auditorium, between 3:30 and 4:30 p. m. The show will be open today from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Students taking part in the jewelry making demonstration this afternoon are: Ray Kronbrath, Robert Garstka, Bill Hayes, Angelo Ciccarello, Ronald Walsh, Pauline Archer and Gladys Archer. They will be accompanied by their teacher, John D. Freu.

Feminine Tonics

You simply can't be without a few of these new chiffon square scarves by Brooke Cadwallader. You simply can't (and won't when you've seen them). They're available for shipment at Stackpole's third-floor women's shop, in a smaller $4.50 size, in the most magnificent color combinations we've seen in years. They're the most delightful motifs too: circus and zoo for instance, in such color combinations as cerise with turquoise or yellow with aqua; and you prefer muted tones in old blue with color contrasts. In the larger squares they're the exciting "Gilded Cage," "Chateau," and "Old French Song" on luxurious grounds. These are priced from $8.50 to $12. Really collectible items and wonderful gift suggestions for Easter!

They're in the basic costume-shades of the year, navy, black, tan, grey, are fitted beautifully through the waistline, have moderately full skirts, and interesting collar and cuff treatments. They'll be handsome basic background coats for a full neckline, or lapel ornamentation and are priced at $85 in sizes 8 through 42.

For "Tomato Pilaf": To two cups stock, add two cups tomato juice, and bring to a boil. Wash one and one-fourth cups raw rice, and add. Cover and cook over a low heat until the rice is tender, and the liquid is absorbed. Remove from heat, stir in three tablespoons bacon drippings, and one-half cup grated cheese.

For precision watch repairing and fine jewelry repair, too, you can depend on P. G. Pariseau, expert jeweler. His shop is located at 62 LaSalle Road, West Hartford (second floor, room 201).

"Creole Sauce" is delicious served with smelt. To make, melt two tablespoons of fat; add three tablespoons chopped onion, one-fourth cup chopped olives, and one-fourth cup chopped green pepper. Cook until green pepper is soft. Add two tablespoons flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, one teaspoon sugar, and two cups canned tomatoes. Stir well until thick and flavor-blended, about 45 minutes.

At the Egan Shop, 31 Albany Street, they have wonderful gabardine and corduroy sets including jacket, overalls and a little cap to match. They're perfect Easter gifts for little boys and girls wearing sizes 1 to 4.

"Sweet and Sour Red Cabbage" makes an excellent accompaniment for baked, broiled or fried fish. Use lemon juice or cider vinegar for the "sour" taste and fry brown sugar for the "sweet."

For handbags with "purse-onality," see those at James Lawrence and Son, 197 Trumbull Street. We loved the spacious black patent affair with a red leather lining peeping out, at just $9.62 (tax included). Then there are hard-to-find grey bedding and lizard styles in the new bronze shade.

To liquify honey that has granulated, place the container in a bowl of warm water—not warmer than the hand can bear—until all crystals are melted.

Looking for something distinctive and individual for wedding gifts, or for your own home? Don't fail to see that display of matched accessories in "Coaching" motifs at the Moyer Gallery, 28 Trumbull Street. Gorgeous table lamps; plates in dinner and dessert sizes; huge square ash trays; and a series of framed prints from miniature to large, are all gathered in one coordinated group. And they're surprisingly moderate in price, too: the lamps, for instance, only $12.50 each for a table-size, the porcelain base with the intriguing coach motif. The other pieces are correspondingly moderate.

Foods being cooked over a gas burner should not be allowed to boil over, and stop up the holes of the burner. If this does happen, the burners should be taken off and cleaned by boiling in a washing soda solution.

Are you a Cinderella, wearing a size 4-B shoe? Famous-maker samples, priced at $7.99 (less than half the original price) are now available at Elkins Cancellation Shoe Store, 62 Church Street. They are beautifully fashioned in a variety of colors.

It's just about time for annoying tiny ants in putting in their appearance. Cuts of pennyroyal, sprinkled in places infested by ants, will frighten these little pests away.

The "Revised Standard Version of the New Testament" is available at Wikitower's, 77 Asylum Street (2-3206). It is priced at $2, and may be had in quantities at a special discount for churches and organizations. This version was worked out by a committee of 31 of the foremost Biblical scholars and teachers. Critics agree that it embodies the accuracy of the "American Standard Version" along with the enduring diction, simplicity and rhythmic beauty of the "King James Version."

Here's how to determine whether the brushes in your vacuum cleaner are long enough to sweep the carpet. Place a card across the nozzle. If bristles touch the card, they'll touch the carpet. Too short? Learn how to lower the level—there's probably a pin or slot mechanism or a flat screw at the ends of the roll.

Brown-Thomson's candy department has a full selection of Easter candies. Their "family of chocolate bunnies" range in price from 20 cents to $1.25, and you'll also find jelly beans, marshmallow and milk chocolate eggs and Easter box chocolates.

To make "Sweet Potato Fritters": Season three cups mashed sweet potato, add three tablespoons melted butter, and mould around eight marshmallows, forming eight balls with a marshmallow center.

Have you seen those beautiful wool dresses at Stackpole's third-floor women's shop? They're soft little casuals that will take kindly to dressing up or down with accessories as the occasion warrants and are suitable for immediate wear. In lovely dusty pastels they're the perfect basic and come in fine fabrics including Forstmann wools at $50 and a whole series of fine wool gabardines ranging in price from $40 to $70. The size-range is excellent at this time too, from 10 to 42 but we suggest early selection while color and size ranges are complete.

Pretty as a picture come April showers—could be "You" in one of the adorable raincoats we saw recently in the Outlet, Pratt Street near Main. One, a three-way belted model, comes in solid colors with a black velvet collar, a matching brimmed hat, and is but $16.98. Another, in the polo coat style with a belted-back and puritan collar, comes in assorted pastel plaids, priced at $19.98. Both are in sizes 9 to 15.

If you take a dry cloth and wipe dry all articles and utensils to be placed in the refrigerator, you'll find that less moisture collects on the freezing unit. Consequently the refrigerator doesn't have to be defrosted so often.

A slip, sweater, or blouse is so personally yours when it is monogrammed, and Wonder Weavers, 29 Pearl Street, do lovely work, at modest prices.

French toast or waffles help to make a simple Lenten meal satisfying. Especially when served with melted butter and strawberries or raspberry preserves for a change. You won't miss the meat when you have a fare such as this.

If you're still doing the shops for your spring bonnet, you'll want to see the many new arrivals at Guy's on Pratt Street. Included are beautiful straw hats in pastel and dark shades, in many flattering styles; lovely falls in colors and black, some with ribbons, and a wide selection of smart knit hats. Do see them soon, Guy's are open on Monday, you know.

Be sure to rotate your garden. If the same ones are at the same windows month after month, sunlight will weaken the fabric of that they will not be able to stand cleaning.

Do go in to the Wise-Smith corset department, second floor, and see the new W. B. Young "line" girdles for the heavier figure. Fashioned of all-satin latex, they're boned in front, and come in sizes 29 to 40 in the 18-inch length. They come in blue, nude, black and white, and are priced at $16.50. Incidentally, there's a satin bra to match for $5.

This is another grand and garnish for platter of hot meat, which you might easily remember as "Cucumber Cups": Cut large cucumbers in two-inch slices, scoop out one end leaving the other end for the bottom. Boil, drain, and fill with any desired hot filling—green peas, baby limas, creamed corn, etc. Garnish each cup with a bit of chopped parsley, and a dab of butter.

Leon's, home of larger-size fashions exclusively, 57 Pratt Street, have lovely rayon prints for spring and washable cottons in monotonies, stripes, and prints for summer. Sizes are 16 and one-half to 30 and one-half and 38 to 52.

For "Oven Fried Potatoes": Cut six potatoes as for French fries. Soak in ice water one hour or longer, drain. Arrange potatoes in pan greased with one tablespoon salad oil. Sprinkle two tablespoons salt and one-half teaspoon pepper over hot oven (450 to 500 degrees) for thirty minutes, or until golden brown. Remove and salt. This will make six portions.

We found an adorable suit for junior, the other day, at the Sage-Allen children's department (third floor). Styled by "Twigs," of all-wool gabardine, it has an Eton jacket, which is completely lined, short trousers, and comes in natural, priced at $12.98. Sizes are from 3 to 7.

This is a timely spring-cleaning measure for moth prevention in your wardrobe. The first step is to fill the container of your vacuum cleaner with moth crystals. Place the vacuum cleaner in the closet, seal the door tightly with fumigator's tape (it is gummed on one side and applied easily, attach a vacuum cleaner, and let the motor run for about three-quarters of an hour, or long enough to vaporize one-half pound of crystals.

Easter candles, cunningly formed as bunnies, eggs, tulips, and other spring flowers, may be purchased at Steigler's fifth-floor "Gateway." The young set will be intrigued, and you'll want them to pretty up your table settings. They're so gay, and priced at a mere 19 to 75 cents.

This "Cucumber Dressing" may be served on tomato slices or wedges. Mash three tablespoons cream cheese. Beat in one-half cup mayonnaise until smooth. Add one-half teaspoon onion juice, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon paprika, and one-half cup cucumber. Mix well and chill.

'Snowflake' Theme Used for Formal Dance at Weaver

In a gaily decorated gymnasium, Weaver High School students, on Friday evening, December 9, danced to the music of Larry Gerald's Orchestra, as they held their first formal dance of the year.

The theme of the dance being "Snowflake Fantasy," the gym had colored pixies throughout the room, while branches of trees, painted white and glittering with silver tinsel, gave a "winterland" atmosphere. In the center of the room, extended from the ceiling, was a large white parachute filled with blue balloons.

The dance was held under the sponsorship of the Girls' League. Chairman of the affair was Rita DiMella, Girls League treasurer. Committee chairmen were: Tickets, John Cooney; decoration, Donna Forman; publicity, Marilyn Hainsey; orchestra, Robert Lombardo; patrons and patronesses, Eleanor Hoffman; program, Bernard Schneider.

Patrons and patronesses were Principal and Mrs. William Aitken, Vice-Principal and Mrs. Ezra Melrose, Miss Katherine Goodwin, Miss Gretchen Harper, Miss Marie Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Weston Brockway, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Darling, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Green, Mr. and Mrs. John Preu, and Mr. and Mrs. William Waring.

Art Students Shun Academic Approach Strike Out on Own More Than Ever

Art enthusiasts are "striking out on their own" more than ever at the West Hartford Art League's Mountain Road Studio.

"In the past year or so," league president George L. Burke noted recently, "students and members have veered away from an academic approach to art and have been experimenting with modern forms." More interest in abstract art over realism at the studio reflects this trend, he said.

There has also been a growing interest in different types of arts and crafts, he continued. Certain groups are calling for new classes in bookbinding, tooled leather, and hook rugs. Mr. Burke feared this might be a little "on the borderline of sewing classes."

One craft class that is here to stay in West Hartford is the course in antique American decoration taught by Mrs. Marion Cooney of Glastonbury. Several fine Hitchcock chairs and tables were high points of the league's last exhibit in January.

The league holds exhibits three times during its season, one in the beginning in September, one in the middle, and one at the end of June. The league has a healthy class increase of 10 per cent each year. It was founded in 1933 and for the 1950 season there are more than 110 people enrolled in the six-week courses which are repeated six times between the fall and June.

Members, some of whom are 70 years apart in age, have a choice of a dozen different classes. Walter O. R. Korder, a West Hartford professional portrait and mural painter, conducts three oil-painting classes. Two more actions in oils are supervised by Ross Parke of West Hartford. Mr. Parke, incidentally, will be featured at the monthly demonstration-talk Friday night. He will show how he paints a landscape.

Rebecca F. Jones, a Hartford artist, started the very popular sculpture class two years ago. Mrs. Estelle Coniff of Hartford has three sections, in pastels, oils, and water-colors. She also works with the children's class every Saturday. Adult classes are held days and nights Monday through Saturday.

Pottery and ceramics instructor is Joseph Cutrona of Middletown. League members are especially proud of this course, which was begun in 1947 and features instruction in an electric potter's wheel. John Preu of Naugatuck, an art teacher in public schools, heads up a class in metalwork and jewelry.

"If we know someone has a definite interest in a certain type or philosophy of art, we steer him in a group leaning toward that way," Mr. Burke said. "After that he is encouraged to paint what ever he feels like."

Gala Prom Has Blossom Theme At Weaver High

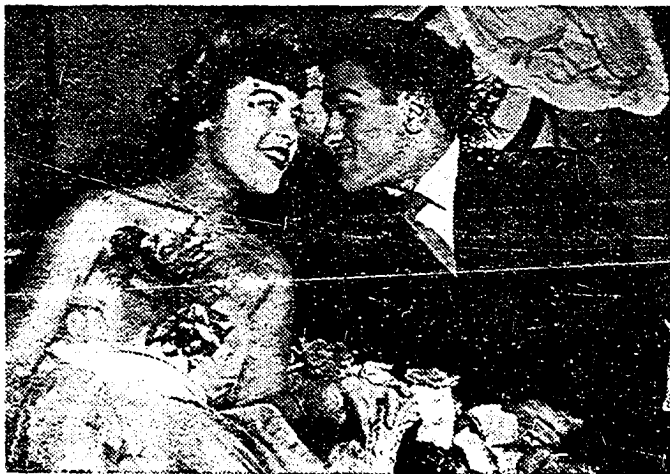

BY PEARL T. YELLEN.

Approximately 325 persons witnessed the coronation of a King and Queen at the Junior Prom at Weaver High on April 21.

Crowned by Edward Robbins and Ruth Cohen, co-chairmen, the King and Queen were Emilio Del-Mastro and Theresa DiMella.

The theme being "Blossom Time," the gymnasium was transformed into a "fairylane of flowers." Panels with large painted flowers were distributed around the hall. Basketball baskets filled with shredded paper became birds' nests and were topped by life-like forms of birds. Painted on large glass mirrors on one side of the gym were animated bees, forming a procession, symbolizing the Coronation. Across the ceiling, strips of varied colored crepe paper strung from the balcony railings, met in the center to surround a large silver watering can draped with flowers, which was suspended from the ceiling.

Patrons and patronesses for the occasion included Principal and Mrs. William F. Aiken, Vice-Principal and Mrs. Ezra B. Melrose, Miss Katherine Goodwin, dean of girls, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Darling, Miss Marie Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. John Preu, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Waring, Mr. and Mrs. Colin Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. John Alibrio, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Aschenbach.

Pools To Open Saturday At Beachland, Fernridge

West Hartford's Beachland and Fernridge park swimming pools will open for the summer Saturday at 10 a. m., Recreation Director William T. Davies announced Sunday. Mr. Davies said the pool hours this year will be from 10 a. m. to noon, from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 6:30 p. m. to 8 p. m. The morning period will be for swimming instruction only. Classes will be held each weekday for boys and girls eight years of age and older. The Department of Recreation will follow the Red Cross program in its swimming classes. This means that there will be instruction from the beginning level through senior life saving. Youngsters can register for swimming classes June 19, 20, and 21. They will be given tests before they are assigned to a particular swimming classification.

Afternoons and evenings the pools will be open for recreational swimming. Admission is either by individual tickets, purchased at the pool, or by season tickets. The latter may be bought in advance Friday from 1:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. and from 6:30 p. m. to 8 p. m. at each pool. Mr. Davies urges parents to buy their season tickets during these hours to avoid having to stand in line on opening day.

Stuart Parks, assistant director of athletics at Trinity College, will again be head life guard at the Beachland Park pool.

Other guards at Beachland will be Douglas Morrison, back for his fourth season, and two newcomers, Richard Day of Middlebury College and Gerald McLaughlin of Trinity College.

Arthur Christ, football coach and freshman swimming coach at Trinity, will be back as head life guard at Fernridge.

Working with him will be Robert Parker, a varsity team swimmer at Trinity, and William Slocum of Purdue University.

All guards at both pools are qualified American Red Cross water safety instructors.

Swimming Highlights

Highlights of this summer's swimming season will be the separate pool meets, the town swimming meet, and the Greater Hartford meet at which a team composed of swimmers from each pool will represent West Hartford. There will also be the annual water carnival, which each year attracts capacity audiences.

Many Going to College

Principal Ray W. Harriman reports that to date Hall High School has had 182 members of its graduating class of 329 accepted by colleges and universities. This figure represents 55 per cent of the entire 1950 class, a gain already of two per cent over the number accepted for college out of the 1949 class. Hall expects that before the Fall about 60 per cent of the total class will be enrolled in college.

Hall High teachers are particularly pleased by the fact that practically every one of the students who took college preparatory courses were accepted for college entrance next Fall.

Boys State Delegates

Four boys will represent Hall High at the annual Nutmeg Boys State youth-in-government program June 25 through July 1 at the University of Connecticut, Storrs. They were selected by Principal Ray W. Harriman on the basis of scholarship and leadership. They are: John Nyquist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Nyquist of 133 Mayflower Street; Lincoln Merrill, son of Mrs. Ralph LeBlanc, 188 Four Mile Road; Ronald McGowan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. McGowan of 39 Newport Avenue; and Robert Sind, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. George Sind of 19 Thomson Road.

Tax Collections

Tax Collector Mrs. Doris L. Salmonsens reports that tax collections show a slight lag this year. As of June 1, she says, $3,108,446.20 had been paid in taxes. This is 87.64 per cent of the $3,546,781.72 due. In 1949 at the same date 88 per cent of the total taxes due had been paid.

Mrs. Salmonsens said the higher tax rate may be responsible for the lag.

Johnson to Speak

Colonel A. M. Johnson, chief of staff of the Springfield Ordnance District, will speak to the Kiwanis Club Tuesday at 6:15 p. m. at Les Shaw's restaurant.

Notes

David Fitch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fitch of 69 Bonny View Road, and Harold Leidholdt, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Leidholdt of 53 Rockledge Drive, will be graduated from Mount Hermon School, East Northfield, Mass., at the school's sixty-fourth commencement exercises Sunday.

Gordon E. Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Johnston of 8 Cornell Road, has graduated from the Junior College of Concordia Collegiate Institute, Bronxville, N. Y. Mr. Johnston plans to continue his education at Concordia Theological Seminary, St. Louis, Mo.

Parade of Youth to Sponsor Scholastic Art Program

Exhibition To Be Held At Wadsworth Atheneum Again This Year Will Consist of Students' Work

Once again The Courant Parade of Youth will sponsor the Scholastic Art Awards for the State of Connecticut.

The Art Awards program, which for the past two years has been an integral part of the Parade of Youth program, and is the largest art competition in the world, will again offer scholarships, cash prizes, gold keys of achievement and certificates of merit to high school students of Connecticut and will bring the work done in classrooms throughout the state into view for the public. It will give recognition to outstanding works of art executed by boys and girls of this state.

Every student participating in the project has an opportunity to win honors for himself and his school in the regional exhibition. After this show, winning pieces will be forwarded to the national exhibition at Carnegie Institute where they will be judged by a national jury of distinguished artists and will compete for thousands of dollars in prizes and 125 scholarships to leading art schools.

This is the second Scholastic project sponsored again this year by The Courant Parade of Youth. Sponsorship of the Scholastic Writing Awards, also in conjunction with Scholastic Magazines, national sponsor, was announced in Parade of Youth recently.

Pactically every phase of pictorial, graphic and commercial art is included in the Scholastic Awards. Rules booklets explaining the various classifications are already in the hands of the printers and will be forwarded to high school principals and art teachers shortly. Students may obtain additional copies later by writing to Scholastic Art Awards, Parade of Youth, The Hartford Courant, 285 Broad Street, Hartford, Conn.

ARTIST VISITS SCHOOL—Miss Nova Bartlett, an exchange artist from Berkeley, Calif. High School on Wednesday visited Weaver High School where she met with the members of the Art Club at that school. Here, she examines the latest painting done by Florine Teale, who was a winner in last year's Scholastic Art

Weaver Arts Club Holds Field Trip, Visits Mystic

BY MARTIN HOFFMAN.

The Weaver Arts Craft's Club made a field trip to Mystic on Monday, October 16. There the members of the club sketched copies of works in the museum. The trip was planned by John Preu, faculty adviser of the club.

Dr. George McReynolds, dean of the College of Arts and formerly head of the Department of Government appeared as a guest speaker at a United Nations day assembly held on October 24. He was introduced by Judith Paull, chairman of the Weaver branch of the Student Foreign Policy Association. Dr. McReynolds spoke about the Far-Eastern situation and the United Nations. After the assembly a coffee hour was held in the club room.

A United Nations flag, purchased by the Girls League, was also presented to Weaver by Jane Bolcher, president of the Girls' League, during the assembly.

Miss Lillian Mansfield, Foreign Policy Association faculty adviser, arranged the United Nations day assembly.

On October 25, the 10 candidates for the Junior City Council general election were given a chance to put forth their platform at a student assembly. The 10 candidates who survived the primary election are Edgar F. Beckham, Muriel DuBrow, Joseph J. Ettl, Abraham Glassman, Arnold C. Greenberg, Mandred T. Henry, Judith A. Hoffberg, Marvin S. Pisetsky, Edward L. Robbins and David S. Urofsky.

Dr. Frederick Cramer, head of the Department of History at Mt. Holyoke College, and professor at the Hartford College will speak on "Life in a Communist Country," on October 31, at a student assembly.

Dr. Cramer has traveled extensively in Europe and last summer traveled through Yugoslavia. He will be introduced by Sophie Lamson, student member of the Foreign Policy Association.

On the night of November 8 open house for the parents of the sophomore class will be held at the Weaver high school. The parents will be given a chance to become better acquainted with the faculty and the school.

YWCA Education Group Invites Public to Party

The Adult Education Department of the YWCA has issued an invitation to the public to attend a Preview Party at 262 Ann Street, Thursday, January 4 between 8 and 10 o'clock.

The occasion will be an opportunity for everybody to become acquainted with the crafts offered during the winter months at the YWCA. Among the instructors who will be present to tell about their activities will be: Christopher Benne and Mrs. Clayton Squires, ceramics; Mrs. Martha Davenport, stencilling; Mrs. Dorothy Dissell, millinery; Mrs. Virginia Martin, early American decorating; Mrs. Armand L. Pelletier, hooked rugs; Edward A. Phillips, photography; John Preu, jewelry; N. Ross Parke, art; Mrs. T. B. Richardson, bridge and canasta; and Mrs. Margaret Van Houtte, interior decorating.

Tables will be set up for those who wish to play bridge or canasta. Cup cakes and coffee will be served.

Portfolios Chosen For Maior Show

Entries of Six High School Students Top Art Exhibit

The art portfolios of six Connecticut high school students, including one submitted by a Weaver High senior, have been selected to be sent to Pittsburgh, Pa., where they will be judged for national honors in April.

Looby, Parade of Youth editor, announced the following names during Saturday's opening ceremonies of the Courant-Scholastic Magazines Third Annual Regional Scholastic Art Exhibition: Florine Teal of Hartford, Weaver High; Lewis Krevolin of New Haven, Hillhouse High; Deborah Plumer of Stamford, Stamford High, and Bernice Fitch, Donald Bujnowski and Robert Goryl, all of Norwich Free Academy.

Winners of the nation-wide portfolio contest, who will receive either cash awards or art scholarships, are scheduled to be announced "sometime in May," Mr. Looby said.

Newington Rolls Out the Welcome Mat

NEWINGTON is proud of its Lucy Robbins Welles Library, which stems from the first one established in 1752 by the Rev. Joshua Belden.

NEWINGTON on April 30 to May 4 will celebrate the two hundredth anniversary of the establishment of the town's first library with a five-day open house and bicentennial program at the Lucy Robbins Welles Library.

The sixth library in Connecticut, the first Newington library was established in 1752 by the Rev. Joshua Belden, pastor of the local Congregational Church, in the days when Newington was still a section of Wethersfield. The establishment of one of the state's earliest libraries in a farm community is a tribute to the high standards of early New England colonists. Newington at that time could not employ a full-time pastor. The Rev. Belden supported his family by operating a farm, not far from the first church building in Newington Center. Pastor Belden's grave is in the Newington Center Burial Ground.

The first books of the library were evidently gifts while most early acquisitions were gifts or second hand purchases. There was a heavy emphasis on religious books, as might be expected in a colonial community where church and state were one. The concern of our forefathers with religious problems is reflected by the titles of some of the books known to have been in the first library: "The Ruin and Recovery of Mankind with an Answer to Various Difficulties," "Relating to Original Sin," "The Universal Depravation of Nature," "And the Overspreading Curse of Death."

THE great Colonial Divines were well represented in the library with Edwards "On Redemption," Prideaux's "Connections," and the sermons of Strong and Perkins of Hartford and Smalley of New Britain, among other similar volumes.

There were also a few volumes such as "Chamberlayn's State of Britain," Morse's "American Geography," and Guthrie's "Grammar."

In 1787, Jedediah Deming, a prominent town citizen, willed 60 pounds for a Charity Library to maintain the public circulation of books of Calvinistic principles. Featuring such works as Edward's on "Free Will," this was evidently the town's first free library, and was eventually composed of 200-300 books.

About 1800, the Social Society Library was organized and continued until destroyed by fire in 1855. The volumes of this library were evidently collected for entertaining reading to relieve the theology of the two earlier collections.

A Young Men's Library also existed during the 19th century, but not even its dates have survived.

Early in the second century, by 1877, the Young People's Literary Association had undertaken responsibility for maintaining the town library. For eight years, the books were kept in the home of General Roger Welles on the site of the present library building.

Newington pioneered again in library work in introducing a branch library in 1889 when about 100 books were placed in a house in the southern part of town, to bring the books closer to residents there.

To take advantage of state aid laws, the library work in 1895 was organized as the Newington Town Library, and was housed for many years in the Town Hall. It inherited books from the earlier libraries, many of which will be exhibited at the bicentennial.

The family of General Welles had always maintained their interest in the town library and in the 1920's his granddaughter Fanny A. Welles made a bequest which provided for a library building in memory of her mother, Lucy Robbins Welles. The present library building was constructed in 1939.

Under terms of the bequest, a corporation composed of "citizens interested in furthering the literature and cultural activities of Newington" was formed to hold title to the library building. The use of the building was offered to the town as a free Public Library and operating expenses are included in the town budget. The Library is under the direction of a Board composed of six trustees elected by the town, and six elected by the library corporation.

The Dutch colonial building stands across the street from the Newington Junior and Senior High Schools and two elementary schools in Newington Center. The building is a reproduction of a colonial home of Dutch design adapted for library and civic purposes. Two reading rooms are similar to the Newington Room in the American Wing of New York's Metropolitan Museum. The library is furnished with Virginia Craftsman reproductions with a few genuine old antiques. A lecture room on the second floor, a kitchen, and smaller meeting rooms in the basement provide community meeting facilities until needed for library purposes. The entrance is reproduced from the former Churchill residence in Newington. Today a third (3,206) of the town's 9000 residents hold library cards and last year took out about 14 books apiece for a total circulation of 45,639. About half the circulation is among children. The collection of 13,000 books is now being enlarged at the rate of 1,000 volumes a year. The library subscribes to 40 magazines and allows their circulation to townspeople under the same rules as govern book circulation.

DEPOSIT stations are maintained at five elementary schools where circulation is about 1,000 a month. Second grade children are issued cards and are progressively introduced to the best in children's literature for their age. In sixth grade, they are given detailed instruction in the use of the library by the librarian, followed by a class visit to the library. A large file of pictures is extensively used by children.

Ten adult clubs meet regularly at the library and many special meetings are accommodated. Exhibits of hobbies and collections of townspeople elicit interest while a permanent town historical exhibit reminds the younger generation of the town's early history.

Librarian since 1946 is Mrs. Hobart B. Potter who spent seven years as a high school teacher of history and English before earning the BS degree in LS at the University of Illinois. She also took advanced work in book selection and library administration in a summer session at the University of Michigan Library School. Mrs. Potter was readers advisor at the Bridgeport Public Library for one year, curator of the Abernethy Library of American Literature at Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vt., for four years, with the Vermont State Library Commission for three years, and assistant at Granville, N. Y. for eight years before coming to Newington.

Mrs. Potter is assisted by Mrs. Merrill A. Louks and Mrs. Arthur Hollings.

COMMITTEES of about 50 townspeople have planned the 200th anniversary celebration, headed by E. Welles Eddy, chairman of the Library Board. Committee chairman include John F. Hazen, Harry A. Webster, Mrs. Bruce Henn, Robert M. Bishop, Mrs. John E. Doyle, and John D. Freu.

Scouts have distributed invitations to all homes in Newington.

The Library will be open daily Wednesday through Saturday from 1 to 9 p.m. and Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. for the Bicentennial Open House. Furniture, portraits, photographs and other objects pertaining to the early history of Newington will be on display at the Library.

Many town groups will be entertained at tea from 3 to 5 p.m. during the open house.

Formal observation of the anniversary will be on Thursday, May 1, at 8:15 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Guest speakers will be Wilmarth S. Lewis of Farmington, noted Walpole scholar, who will speak on the function of the library in a suburban community. The Rev. Harry S. Martin, retired pastor of the Newington Congregational Church, will speak on the history of the library. Edmund E. Keleher, first selectman, will give the address of welcome.

The general public is invited to attend all the Bicentennial events.

MRS. HOBART POTTER has been librarian since 1946.

West Hartford

Parking Lot Negotiations Boq Down In Stalemate

Negotiations for a second municipal parking lot, under consideration for nine months, reached a stalemate this week. The stumbling block appeared to be the proposed westward extension of the center business zone along Farmington Avenue, approved by the Town Plan and Zoning Commission but already twice tabled this month by the Town Council. Involved in both projects is the West Hartford Merchants Corp. which owns land to be used for the parking lot and to be rezoned for business. Samuel K. Lavery of the merchants' group denied this week that there was any tie-in.

However, prior to the rezoning delay, terms in the form of 15-year leases for land comprising the lot had been agreed upon between the town and Allen S. Griswold, Pasquale L. Sinatra, and the Merchants Corp., and the papers were ready for signing.

Town Manager Rodney L. Loomis said the Town Council had approved the land acquisition last December and that, while a longer-term lease would have been preferred to justify an expected $25,000 expenditure in land improvements, the 15-year period was finally accepted.

Then came the unexplained standstill—just as the Town Council could not come to an agreement on the business-zoning of the Leonard Romaniello and Merchants Corp. properties and part of the Grace Lord Bennett land.

The town, aware of the critical parking situation, is ready to start work immediately on the new site. It would accommodate an estimated 250 cars, thrice the capacity of the present lot. What needs to be done are the installation of a storm sewer, grading, and macadamizing of the surface. The town engineer is expected to do the job with hired equipment.

As a last resort—if the town has the determination and the owners of the parking lot land continue to hold out—condemnation proceedings could be undertaken.

Auction Mart Sales Fall Behind Figures For 1951

MANCHESTER, Oct. 25 (Special)—Sales for the 51-days the Manchester Auction Mart has been in operation this year are nearly $5,000 behind the sales for a similar period a year ago. However, the mart closed at the end of 51 days of operation in 1951. This year the mart will start its 52nd day of operation on Sunday. Since its opening on Aug. 13, the mart, sponsored by the Manchester Fruit and Vegetable Producer's Marketing Association, has functioned five days a week, Sunday through Thursday at 2 p.m. at the mart grounds on Charter Oak Street.

On Sunday it will start operating on a three day, a week basis Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday until further notice as the fall garden produce season begins to wane.

Figures show that in 1951, aggregate sales at the mart for the season amounted to $95,469.86 which was an increase of $4,000 over the 1950 fall market receipts.

Sales at the mart this year amount to $90,759.10.

As in former years, tomatoes and cauliflower have been the principal commodities disposed of at the mart. In the early days of the mart each year table cucumbers and shell beans are offered. However, these latter two items have not appeared for several weeks.

The mart's sponsoring group consists of farmers here and in surrounding communities. There is a strong possibility that next year the mart's operations may be moved to the Hartford Regional Market, which recently opened.

Leased For $1

At the present time the mart's location is leased from the town for $1 a year. Town officials have said on a number of occasions that they want to take over the entire property on Charter Oak Street for recreation purposes.

Gordon Reid is the mart's auctioneer, William Saglio, the auction master and the Manchester Trust Company, the mart's cashier.

The association also sponsors the Strawberry Auction Mart earlier in the summer.

No Open Fires

South Manchester Fire Chief James Schaub Saturday stressed the order he issued earlier in the week. According to the fire head, there is to be no open fires in Manchester until further notice. This order is made necessary because of the dry conditions now existing. The only outdoor burning permitted, according to Chief Schaub, is in an incinerator, under supervision.

Both the South Manchester and the Manchester fire departments answered calls Saturday for grass and brush fires.

Case Continued

The case of Sumner C. Harrington, 38, of 106 Prospect St., Rockville, charged with embezzlement, was continued until Monday in Town Court on Saturday. He is free in $500 bonds. Police report that Harrington is alleged to have embezzled about $100 from his employer, a Manchester garage proprietor. Numerous other cases, most of them minor motor vehicle violations, were disposed of Saturday.

Weaver Students Elect Council Representatives

By ADELLE GORDON

In the biggest turn-out of registered voters since the Junior City Council began in December 1949, Weaver students elected their representatives to the Council. Ninety-five and five tenths per cent of the student body chose Harvey Wachtel, Marion Plummer, Sam Gerovitz, Sandra Pessin and Alice Alexander to be their five J.C.C. members for 1952-1953.

Harvey Wachtel, who received the highest number of votes, is captain of the tennis team, and belongs to the school paper, the "Lookout," the Letter Club and the Boys' Club. He is also a member of the Editorial Board of the classbook, "The Portal," and of the Projection Squad.

Marion Plummer, president of the Arts and Crafts Club, member of the "Portal" Editorial Board, and A Student Council representative came in second.

The third highest number of votes went to Sam Gerovitz, a "Portal" Business Board member, chairman of the Sidewalk Committee of the Student Council and a member of the Boosters and the Boys Club.

Sandra Pessin, associate editor of the "Lookout" and student adviser from Weaver to the Board of Education Curriculum Committee, was next in number of votes. Sandra also belongs to the Foreign Policy Association, the Honor Society, the Projection Squad, the Dramatic Club and Junior Achievement.

Alice Alexander, a member of the orchestra, Girls' League, Senior Nominating Committee and Choir and Glee Club, is the last—but not the least J.C.C. representative. All five J.C.C. members are seniors.

Thirty-six members of the Arts Crafts Club of Weaver, accompanied by Miss Lillian Erickson, Miss Dorothy Pickard, and John Freu, took an 11½ hour long trip to Westport, where they visited the studios of such nationally known magazine illustrators as Harold Von Schmidt, and Steve Dohanos, and where they met the famous sculptor James Earle, Fraser and his wife.

Weavers' undefeated football team, headed by co-captains Don Moores and Billy Wenzel, won their third game on October 18, when they defeated New London. Two buses were chartered by about 60 students under the direction of the Weaver Boosters to go to the game. The Boosters are a new organization of students who are emphasizing school spirit. They are headed by Edwina Vecchiolla.

Weaver High Students Hold Annual Variety Show

BY ADELE GORDON

"This is Monkey Business," the 1953 version of Weaver Night, was held recently on the Weaver High School stage.

Emcees Jerry Blume and Alan Pivnick, as Broadway theatrical agents, held the show together with routines and comments

The Dancing Dolls, the chorus line which opened the show had the assistance of Theresa Champ, Weaver alumna who helped the girls get their routines started. Others dancers included Diane Mills and Mary Valleria who did a duet to the tune of "Flowers for Madame," Patricia Baker, whose tap solo of "Shanghai" was excellent, and Phyllis Baggish and Leonard Ravish, a tango duet.

The singers and their numbers included Beverly Gold's beautiful rendition of "Can't Help Loving That Man"; Herbert Benson, referred to by emcees Pivnick and Blume as "Weaver's own Billy Eckstein" who sang "You I Love"; soprano Arlyne Kamen with "You'll Never Know," and Arline Grimaldi, who sang her version of "Zing Went the Strings of My Heart." Lois Burke sang "Granada," and Shirley Ann Lee sang "If Someone Had Told Me." Judy Chafin, sang "You Go To My Head," and "My Hero" was sung by Phyllis Baggish. David Robbins and Alonzo Coleman rounded out the number of the singers. David sang "Love Letters," and Alonzo sang "Because You're Mine."

In the novelty group was Edwina Vecchiola's pantomime, done to the Spike Jones' version of "I Came to Your Wedding."

The phosphorescent balls which Bob Alexander used at the end of his juggling act produced quite a sensation, as did the "Hipsters" act, which consisted of jazz, revival meeting style. "The Hipsters," Lawrence Goldberg, Gerald Stepakoff, Dennis Sternlight, Sheldon Rosenbaum, and Arthur Freedman provided humor.

The Goofus Girls, Renee Kotik, Barbara Miller, Marcia Rowe, and Estelle Gavensky had a chorus line, country style. Andy Jackson, star of the Boys' Leader Corps exhibitions, was also a Weaver Night star. He did hazardous handstands. Georgiana Block did an acrobatic dance later in the program.

Instrumentally, Sheldon Rosenbaum was busiest of all pianists. Besides giving a solo, and collaborating with Cynthia Chaffee and Marilyn Katz in a string arrangement of "The Syncopated Clock," Sheldon, Herbert Martin, and Phyllis Goldstein played the piano accompaniment for the rest of the acts. Herbie's solo, "Jet," was well received by the audience, as was Sandra Pessin's "Blue Tango." There were three other instrumental soloists: Leonard DeMaio, who beat out "Swampfire" on his drums, Leonard Bialick, with a trumpet solo, "The Brave Bulls" and Earle Schaller, whose ability with the marimba enabled him to do part of his "Rhapsodic Fantasy" in absolute darkness.

The acting was displayed in two skits which were the Dramatic Club's contribution to Weaver Night. "The Pen is Mightier Than the Word," the significance of whose title escaped the audience, starred Beth Cohen, Edmund Golden, Etta Gammer, Robert Feldman, Ruth Wessler, and Sandra Pessin in a short scene in a dentist's office as several persons made the mistake of trying to talk to a man whose false teeth had been newly removed for repairs. The other short play, "The Yellow Peril" dealt with the effects of goldenrod upon the actors in a movie. Honey Golden, Carole Moses, Patricia Baker, Robert Feldman, and Edmund Golden played the hay-fever susceptible actors.

The surprise stars of the evening, however, turned out to be faculty participants in their own version of "Macbeth." The reading was done by John Preu, while the rest of the cast ambled about the stage in odd looking costumes, and in an odd play.

The cast consisted of John Alibrio, Walter Aschenbach, Miss Harriet Best, Nicholas Coracci, Miss Priscilla Drake, Miss Mae Drescher, Miss Lillian Erickson, Willard Green, Miss Nina Hartin, Miss F. Elliot Larrabee, Miss Mona O'Hara, Edward Sandall, George Saxton, Mrs. Edward Tucker, and William Waring.

The entire production was under the direction of Reginald DeVaux.

Garden-Type Apartments Planned On Theater Site

A garden-type apartment project of 66 units is planned for the northwest corner of Sedgwick Road and South Main Street, the site on which the Frank Lloyd Wright theater was to have been built two years ago. The new plans became known Friday when Birch Enterprises, Inc., headed by Edmund H. Schuder, filed a bond for deed in the Town Clerk's office. According to the document, the firm will pay the Morton D. Ailing Corp. a total of $58,000 for the five and a half acre tract. Schuder said that building plans were incomplete.

A second realty document recorded at Town Hall transfers from William A. Mauser to David Garber the rights contained in a bond for deed with C. Sedgwick Griswold for his property at 326 North Main St. The site is opposite the Lord and Taylor store, a Mauser development on Bishop's Corner.

The paper, an assignment, was dated May 2, 1951, and stipulated that Garber would not ask for a change of zone from residence to business until Mauser had petitioned for the rezoning of the northwest corner of the intersection which he also owns.

Connecticut's Revival In CRAFTS

She Can't Keep Her Earrings On

By CRAIG M. PEARSON
II

"Would you please tell me where you got the wonderful medallion necklace you're wearing?" asked the official of one of New York City's most exclusive silver shops.

"A lady in Hartford made it," said Mrs. Arthur Merry. She had come to the store to look at the latest trends in sterling silver jewelry made by craftsmen from all over the world.

"We'd like to contact her," said the store official. "We have nothing than can match that necklace."

The "lady from Hartford" was Mrs. Merry herself. Rather than risk being taken for a "spy", she had disguised her identity.

Bernice Merry is one of the state's foremost creators of sterling silver jewelry.

Bracelets, necklaces and rings in the fullest fine-lined beauty of silver come from the "hers" section of the shop in the basement of the Merry home on Ridgewood Road, West Hartford. Novice in 1945

Mrs. Merry, a beginner only eight years ago, now is master of the whole range of the metal in which she works, from fine threads to solid cuffs.

She shows a ring, a white sapphire, its setting supported all around on the curves of a thin stretched spring of silver wire.

One of her most popular creations is a bracelet, solid and finger-thick, but formed from hundreds of tiny, perfectly matched links woven together. Concentric circles of silver wire make a frame for rose quartz in a matched necklace and earrings she has made. More sombre shades of quartz are matched into heavy bracelets with an Indian look.

Crafts Share Shop

Handicraft shares the shop with industry in the Merry home. And they get along well together.

Mr. Merry is a tool engineer for the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft Corp. Some time ago he designed a unique one-piece aluminum cigarette case. He's spent methodical years at his end of the shop, bringing the case to a point where it can be produced perfectly in large quantities.

"My husband," Mrs. Merry says, "has a production line outlook. But I hate to do any article more than once."

The apparent clash of attitudes never quite materializes.

One of the reasons is a mutual aid program. When Mrs. Merry's pliers can't quite manipulate a band of silver, a call for help goes to the other end of the shop. Mr. Merry can usually figure out the right twist, or provide a jig when a number of like pieces has to be made. He designed a tumbler in which small ball bearings, shaken in soap and water, give the final finish to silver pieces. The process nearly completely replaces the use of jeweler's rouge and the buffing wheel, a tedious, dirty job for all silver crafters.

Retirement Solution

The Merrys, though their shop products differ, also share an interest in the problems of retirement. They both received an insight into the question of leisure time when their four sons started into college, careers and marriage. Side by side, they've found distinctive answers.

The home shop was originally Mr. Merry's idea and ambition. Then, in 1945, Mrs. Merry visited a friend in Detroit who was making silver jewelry. She came back to Connecticut looking for a teacher, but not expecting to find one.

Her search didn't last long, however. A few telephone calls and she was enrolled in one of Connecticut's pioneer craft courses, taught by John Preu at the West Hartford Art League.

The shop plans began to take shape in earnest. Workbenches and tools, Mrs. Merry says, wiped out a "perfectly wonderful recreation room, complete with fireplace, and completely unused."

Expansion Needed

Growing skills mean growing supplies of tools, and the former recreation room was soon overcrowded. The Merrys had been considering adding rooms to their home. The addition turned out instead to be their present well-lighted shop, which looks out over Woodpond Lake through wall-length windows.

Working there, Mrs. Merry creates highly personal designs in her jewelry.

"I've found it best," she says, "to make things that I want to wear myself."

Her tastes range as far modern as mildly abstract flower designs, as far traditional as Greek and Indian forms. But they're brought to life with an unstudied ease, the way an expert cook does things with "a pinch of this and a bit of that."

Sometimes the designs are sketched first; more often the material and the design take shape together.

Silver wire is shaped for jewelry through draw plates. The heavy plates, ordered from France and delivered a year later, have a series of perfectly machined openings, round and square. The wire, softened by heat and cold water, is pulled through the openings, either in straight or twisted pieces.

Links and rings are formed around a mandrel, a machined round bar. The wire is twisted in tight rings, then sawed.

Saw, snips and hammer form the larger sections of the design.

Soldering is the silver craftsman's top achievement. Mrs. Merry cuts minute pieces from a flat sheet of solder and uses a brush to place them on the work. The solder, heated by a gas torch, runs as liquid around the joint.

The torch is a delicate test of the craftsman's skill. A few degrees too cold, the solder will later crack and break; a few degrees too hot, it will melt and ruin work around it.

"Walking Showcase"

Mrs. Merry says that she is her own "walking showcase." The only events at which her work is actively offered for purchase are the special sales of the Society of Connecticut Craftsmen. She's an active member.

"But I often leave the house wearing my own jewelry and have it bought off my ears and wrists before I get home again," she says. Word-of-mouth advertising keeps her busy most of the year and completely overworked just before Christmas.

As long as this situation lasts, Mrs. Merry would prefer to remain just "the lady from Hartford."

Connecticut Crafts

A Free Hand Designs 'Doodle Mittens'

By CRAIG M. PEARSON

All men and women have the impulse and the ability to make things, says Helen A. Haselton. Given discipline enough — and freedom enough—they will make things of beauty.

Miss Haselton, head of the Weaver High School art department until she retired in 1948, proved her point through the energy and imagination of a quarter century of teaching. Hundreds of her students have gone on to solid careers, "making things" from window displays to fine sculpture.

Many of them return for visits to Miss Haselton's home on Newport Avenue, West Hartford. And they find that their former teacher is doing a lot with the free hand she earned with retirement.

Second Identity

She's assumed a second identity as "H. Amanda" (her first initial and her middle name, inherited from a great-aunt). H. Amanda Originals, conceived last fall, are nearly on their way to national distribution. So far the line includes a striking variety of block-printed scarves and a unique design in casual fashion, "doodle mittens."

There are plenty of possibilities for expansion, too. Helen Haselton's hands are proficient in a dozen and more crafts. She's marketed woven belts, with hand-worked metal buckles; leather articles of all varieties, ceramic trays and figurines. She knows enameling, jewelry, basketwork and puppetry.

Sources of Versatility

Her versatility also includes a broad ability in the fine arts. It stems, she thinks, from a blend of inherited inclination and from "the things a teacher should just naturally do to help her pupils."

The inclination, she believes, may have come down from her grandfather, who made just about everything from hinges to chimneys for the Haseltons' ancestral home in Vermont.

Miss Haselton herself is a native of Rockport, Ill., where her father was an insurance executive. After attending Rockport schools, she went on to Milwaukee Downer College and then to the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts. Graduation from the academy threw her into a busy round of activity which hasn't slowed down yet. Her schedule included magazine illustration, free-lance commercial art, and creation of a line of handcrafted dolls, besides a teaching position for three years at the academy.

The Chicago careers ended when her father moved to a new position in Hartford. Miss Haselton joined her family soon after, and took a substitute teaching job at Hartford Public High. Weaver High School opened the next year, 1924, and Miss Haselton was invited to join the faculty. Her versatility, to a great extent, is the product of her students' needs.

A Teacher's Aliveness

"It's hard for me to believe," she says, "that any teacher can shut herself up in the classroom, never reaching the books, the people and the work which keep her alive to her field."

Her own course has been one of full activity, with a good share of it given to the growth of Connecticut's crafts. She joined the Society of Connecticut Craftsmen the year it was started and served for a number of years as its secretary.

Helen Haselton's belief in a full life of teaching brought her pupils a rich experience in arts and crafts. If one of her pupils asked about basket weaving or etching, Miss Haselton eventually came back prepared to guide the pupil's curiosity, or even well enough informed to teach the subject herself.

One query even turned her into a theatrical producer of sorts. Several students wanted to know something about puppetry. The result was a full production, with words, music, costumes and characters by the class, which toured Hartford for nearly a year.

Cross-Section Produces

"Public schools provide a marvelous cross-section," she says. "And there's a place for everyone in it; all you have to do is find it."

Miss Haselton believes in guiding her students in the fundamentals of the things they want—"you just don't do things aimlessly"—and then giving them free rein. The results, she says, are "their own, an expression of themselves." And, she believes, the work was vastly better than any carbon copies of the "best" things could have been.

Her teaching has helped start the careers of men like Elbert Weinberg, who now holds the Prix de Rome in sculpture, and John Preu, who has succeeded his former teacher at Weaver. One former pupil is head of display work for Sears, Roebuck; another operates a successful new merchandising display business in Hartford. Many more have gone on to prominence in arts, crafts and related fields. And the thousand others, Helen Haselton hopes, have gone on to have good taste, which she has called a "permanent vital factor in their practical lives."

There is still some teaching involved in Miss Haselton's busy retirement. Last year she began a design workshop at Hartford's School for Creative Work. But the thrill of teaching has now given way nearly full-time to something for which she never had time enough — the thrill of her own creations.

She still works in the textile designs which she has sold for many years to manufacturers. But H. Amanda Originals in general, and "doodle mittens" in particular, show promise of becoming more than a full-time project.

The mittens, nick-named by one of the editors of a national fashion magazine, are the sprightly result of a project which started with the wrong design and the wrong material.

'Dribbled' Yarn

Miss Haselton wanted to embroider a pair of fleece mittens, in a design provided by another artist. The fleece was too heavy tuted the soft woolen material used for baby blankets. This, she thought was ideal. But it was still too heavy for her design, so she created a new design.

The design was influenced by the work of Jackson Pollack, a famous, if controversial, modern artist who has often created for embroidery, so she substituted the soft woolen material used for baby blankets. This, she thought was ideal. But it was still too heavy for her design, so she created a new design.

to the mittens, however. Miss cloth, "dribbling" the yarn onto Haselton designed them on the the face of the mitten and securing it by the embroidery process called couching.

The result is soft, warm, bright and original, and probably due to become a favorite with style-setting college girls. Mothers and grandmothers won't be left out, colors, has dignity enough to qualify for formal wear.

The consequent demand will probably heighten one of the paradoxes of Miss Haselton's retirement.

"My friends, when I retired, envied me because I'd be able to turn off the alarm clock and go back to sleep. And you know, I haven't outlasted that alarm once in five years."

Newington Boy Is Critically Injured By Car

2 ladder truck answered the call before Company No. 3 arrived. The area involved is bordered by homes on Cedar Street and business buildings on Main Street.

Chief Bochman also pointed out that many fires in outlying districts are away from a water supply other than that carried on the trucks and the danger of fires spreading to buildings is great.

Most of the fires are started from rubbish burners. The chief said that burning outside in any container other than an approved incinerator with a cover is considered burning in the open and requires a permit. Permits may be obtained at the dispatchers office, ground floor rear, in the Town Hall.

An approved incinerator is one in which the openings in the wire mesh are not larger than 1½ inches in diameter. A cover is required. Chief Bochman said many containers commonly used, such as metal barrels, do not meet the requirements as they do not have covers. He said common sense caution dictates tending even a fire in an incinerator until all danger of spreading to surrounding grass is gone.

The law permits fines up to $25 for burning without a permit and Chief Bochman said that continued carelessness will make it necessary to resort to the law to control the situation. He asked public cooperation by using care and obeying the law.

The first of the three fires Thursday was in brush off Carr Avenue and Companies 1 and 3 answered the call.

Painting Exhibitions

The second annual exhibition of paintings by Newington artists under sponsorship of the Lucy Robbins Welles Library will be held from April 30 to June 4 at the library. It will open with a reception and tea.

All Newington residents at least 18 years old are eligible and each may exhibit two paintings, one of which will be hung. Paintings entered must remain throughout the show.

Entry forms may be obtained at the library and the committee is encouraging newcomers to exhibit. Paintings are to be delivered to the second floor of the library on April 23 between 1 and 5 p.m.

The committee consists of Mrs. Harriett Potter, librarian, Gail W. Martin, instructor at the Hartford Art School, Thompson R. Harlow, director of the Connecticut Historical Society and authority on early American art, John Preu, instructor at the West Hartford Art League and Mrs. Robert Taylor, Miss Shirley Dawson and Mrs. Peter Revill, artists.

The committee considers the library an ideal "gallery" and believes that the excellent response to the 1954 showing guarantees an equally fine exhibit next month.

The Red Cross Motor Corps is in need of additional volunteer drivers with cars according to Mrs. Charles Nichols, Motor Corps chairman. In asking that people willing to offer their services call her at MOhawk 6-0039, Mrs. Nichols explained that volunteers are only asked to provide transportation when service has been requested by an authorized agency, such as the Rehabilitation Center, the invalid's physician, a hospital or the Social Service worker.

Newington

Warning Issued By Chief After 3 Fires In Day

NEWINGTON, March 31 (Special)—Three grass and brush fires Thursday brought the total in four days to 10 fires and prompted Chief Gustav Bochman of the Volunteer Fire Department to issue an appeal and warning to residents regarding burning out of doors. Chief Bochman said that, besides the inconvenience caused volunteer firemen, who are called from work in the daytime, there are two major dangers in the type of fires recently experienced.

He cited the possibility of a house fire starting while equipment has been called to an outlying area for a grass fire caused by negligent rubbish burning, and pointed out that serious delay might be encountered in getting men and equipment to the second fire without harmful delay.

Chief Bochman said two of Thursday's fires illustrated the point, although no house was involved. Companies 1 and 3 were called to Mountain Road at 4:30 p.m. where a fire in brush was climbing the side of Cedar Mountain. While Company 3 was returning to North Newington, it was notified by radio to go to Market Square where a large grass fire was burning. The Company No. 1 pumper was still at Mountain Road, so Company No.

Captured in deep study as he takes an overall view of the exhibit is E. Welles Eddy of Newington, president of the library board.

"It looks just like me," says Follett Carter of Newington, as he smilingly approves the work of artist Mrs. Lois S. Taylor of Newington who was responsible for the portrait.

Mrs. John Seremet and Carol Doyle, both Newington residents, are impressed by the amount of detail in a painting of the construction of the new State Street Bridge.

Mrs. John E. Doyle of Newington pours tea for chilly arrivals Mr. and Mrs. Russell T. Therrien, also of Newington.

A Designing Town

Twenty Newington artists gathered their prize canvases together and arranged them in an imaginative exhibit at the Lucy Welles Robins Library for the opening Saturday, Nov. 10 of the third annual exhibition of paintings. Sponsored by the library board as a cultural contribution to the town, the show of paintings drew many interested townspeople and outsiders who came to view and comment on the artistic efforts of the group. The opening was preceded by a tea and reception during which visitors were able to meet and chat with the accomplished dabblers.

The committee in charge included G. W. Martin, Mrs. Harriet Potter, librarian, Mrs. Lois S. Talyor, Mrs. Guna Smith, Mrs. Bruce Henn, Mrs. Peter Revill, Mrs. Howard Hinckley and John D. Preu (All Courant Photos by Arman Hatsian).

An experimental performance was given by the Weaver Dramatic Club in its production of "Gooseberry Tarts." The play was completely directed and portrayed by students.

According to audience reaction, the student directors, Claudia Demers and Louisa Rose, did an excellent job. The cast consisted of Judy Dun, Marshall Deutch, Charlotte Goldstein, Gail Kargman, Janet Wallans, Ina Goldberg, Lorraine Jackoway, Willa Cooper, Sandra Luckinan, and Carol Homelson.

The stage manager was Bob DiBella; assistant stage managers, Jerry Strouch and Michael Goldberg; sign bearers, Norman Finman, Caroline Schaefer, Elizabeth Harris, Karl Theodore, Murry Wise, and Michael Wice.

Steve Lerman was elected president of the Math Club at a recent meeting. Secretary-treasurer for the club is Joel Mandell. Two other members will be appointed to serve on the executive board along with Samuel Bronstein, adviser.

Plans for the future include discussions on careers in math, requirements, and placement; trips to local engineering and insurance offices; and the study of electronic computers.

Twenty-nine volunteers from Weaver's Chapter of Junior Red Cross have worked on Christmas stockings for the Rocky Hill Veterans' Hospital. Each of the 30 stockings filled contained shaving cream, toothpaste and toothbrush, pencils, a pad, an address book, a small game, and a detective book. Money for the articles was borrowed from the Red Cross and will be paid back when the fund-raising drive is held at Weaver.

Lenore Gorbach, chairman of the project, has announced her workers on the stockings as follows: Arlene McClinton, Roberta Schoen, Sylvia Berkon, Patricia Stineford, Margaret Alderman, Mary Ellen Prout, Christine Nicholson, Rodell Merkin, Mary Ellen Mirkin.

Also Rosary Puzlise, Roberta

Lee Milner, Reesa Leff, Lorraine Sigal, Carol Griffin, Janyce Rogers, Valeria Golden, Sandra Pashuskin, BetyLou Horan, Lois McKinney, Fred Jackson.

And Loretta Owens, Ruth Mc Mann, Barbara McKenzie, Eileen Baris, Marlene Katz, Lynn Rosen, and Jo Ann Rankin.

Each year the Arts and Crafts Club goes to hospitals to paint decorations for Christmas. This year they visited St. Francis and McCook hospitals. The idea was originated four years ago when the son of John Preu, adviser, was in St. Francis hospital. Some of the students went there to paint decorations in his honor. They have continued to do this ever since.

Art Show At Library

Eleven large watercolors and eight oil paintings are in the Art Gallery of the Welles Turner Memorial Library and will be there through Jan. 31, Mary Falt, librarian announced. The paintings are the work of John D. Preu art teacher at Weaver High School, of Newington and Cape Cod. He has studied at the Hartford Art School, the Dixon School of Metalcraft and is a graduate of Pratt Institute. He is included in Who's Who in the East and Who's Who in American Art.

Preu has exhibited in invitation exhibits with College Art

Traveling Shows, at the American Water Color Society, the New Water Color Club, the Allied Artists of America and numerous state shows.

Miss Falt said one of the paintings on exhibit is a composite of Cape Cod legends and "should send folks scurrying to the books on Cape Cod for clues."

Endorses Zone Change

The Industrial Committee of the Glastonbury Chamber of Commerce has sent a letter to the Town Plan and Zoning Commission advocating the rezoning of all of Main Street north of the Center to the East Hartford Town Line to "General Business".

Although no action has been taken by the Chamber as a whole at this time the Committee reiterated the stand the Chamber had taken officially when public hearings on a general plan for the community were held by the Town Plan and Zoning Commission.

Harley J. Brooks, chairman of the Committee said Saturday he believed the majority of the chamber members would be behind the committee's action. Others on the committee are C. Marvin Curtis, Alfred J. Dussault, Samuel W.P. McGill Jr., Brereton H. Mucklow and R. Gordon Wooldridge.

DAVID NOYES

David Noyes, 15 - year - old Weaver High sophomore and winner of the recent Parade of Youth Scholastic Art Contest, will be cited as one of the top four teen-age artists in the country at the National Scholastic Art Contest opening today in New York.

The Courant received word by phone of this signal honor to the local youth who will be singled out among thousands of entrants for his "creative ability and high academic standing."

Noyes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Noyes of 46 Blue Hills Ave. His work will also be entered with the professional exhibits in Art U.S.A. The scholastic and professional exhibits are being shown in the New York Coliseum April 9-19.

His work dazzled judges in The Courant's Parade of Youth regional contest sponsored nationally by Scholastic Magazines earlier this year.

At that time, Noyes' high school instructor, John D. Preu of Newington, praised the youth for his unbounded interest. Noyes had 84 pieces entered in the regional contest.

Since Noyes is a sophomore, he is not eligible for the college scholarships to be awarded as prizes for winning seniors at the national exhibit. However, he has two more years of eligibility.

Noyes received a $50 Savings Bond as a prize in the February Parade of Youth contest.

Weaver High Students Win Various Awards

By EILEEN GILLER

Several Weaver High students and the Weaver newspaper, the Lookout, have recently been honored.

Seniors David Brody and Michael Burack have been named finalists in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Tests. Dave and Mike are among less than 10,000 other senior finalists throughout the country, chosen from a field of 550,000 seniors. Less than 1000 scholarships will be awarded, however.

At Weaver Dave is a semifinalist in the National Honor Society Scholarships, and was accepted to the Loomis Pre-College Science Center last summer. He is also headline editor of the Lookout, treasurer of the Weaver Chapter of the National Honor Society, and a member of the JETS and the Math Club.

Mike is president of the Honor Society and JETS (two years), and historian of the class of 1960. He is also a member of the Portal Editorial board, the Math Club, and FPA. Mike attended the Loomis Pre-College Science Center in 1958, and is also a semifinalist in the National Honor Society Scholarships.

Three juniors, David Noyes, Robert Oxenhorn, and Richard Piccolo, have been named major recipients in this year's Scholastic Art awards contest, sponsored by The Hartford Courant Parade of Youth.

Dave's winnings include 31 place awards, two gold keys, and six blue ribbons, a total of thirty-nine entries.

Richard is the possessor of 25 awards; two Hallmark awards, eight blue ribbons, two gold keys and 14 place awards. Both the Hallmark and the blue ribbons awards will be sent to New York to compete for prizes in the National contest.

John D. Preu, Weaver art teacher, also cited Robert Oxenhorn for his "outstanding" work. His winnings include six place awards, one blue ribbon and one gold key.

The work of these Weaver artists was displayed for the public at the annual Regional Scholastic Awards Exhibit.

Senior Deborah Durkin has been named the first recipient of the Chief Paul B. Beckwith Scholarship. Debbie was selected from among several applicants, all of whom were reviewed by the awards committee, comprising Attorney Cornelius D. Shea, Police Sergeant Francis J. Kelly, and William J. Henaghan, Jr. This scholarship award is open to the children of both active and deceased members of the police force.

Debbie plans to attend Hillyer College in the fall in preparation for a career as a medical secretary.

Various Weaver students have had the articles that they made in Howard Hill's industrial arts classes on display in the lobby of the school.

A solid mahogany hi-fi cabinet was the work of senior Menelaus Vardel. It is composed of two 12-inch speakers and has been hand-rubbed and polished.

Two wooden benches were also on display. A wooden coffee table of light and dark contrasting wood, the work of senior Henry Hetu, was assembled by gluing pieces of pine and mahogany alternately and thus achieving the contrasting colors.

John Bolcher, also a senior, built the second wooden table, made entirely of mahogany.

The Lookout, school newspaper, has been selected for national competition in the 1959 Tuberculosis Contest sponsored by the School Press Project because of its November issue, featuring an editorial by junior Richard Cion, entitled "Don't Breathe." The Lookout is one of only four Connecticut high school papers chosen.

The aims of the School Press Project, through giving awards for contributions concerning tuberculosis, are to educate teenagers about the dangers of tuberculosis and to raise the standards of school journalism in the presentation of factual material.

The School Press Project was cosponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews and the Columbia Scholastic Press Association of New York City.

Conn. Craftsmen Celebrate Anniversary At Prestige Show

The Society of Conn. Craftsmen is celebrating the 25th anniversary of its founding with a Design Contest and its annual Prestige Show, both of which will be on exhibit from April 2 through April 24 at the Art Museum, Lexington St., New Britain. The show will be open to the public free of charge Tuesdays through Saturdays, from 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. The Museum is giving a tea for its own members as well as for members of the Society of Conn. Craftsmen and their friends on opening day, April 2.

The Design Contest is under the direction of Mr. Harold Schremmer, silversmith of Hartford, who is assisted by Mrs. C. T. Broskevitch of Bristol. The problem for the contest is to use two straight lines and a circle in all craft entries.

A jury of three will judge the contest and make awards. The jury members are: Miss Genevive Anderson, chairman of teacher training at the Hartford Art School, University of Hartford; Mr. John Preu, chairman of the art department at Weaver High School; and Mr. John H. Wenner, instructor in the fine arts department, Central Connecticut State College, New Britain.

The Prestige Show, headed by Mrs. Peggy Beck Evans of Avon and Mr. Henry Pasco of West Hartford, is the highlight of the year for the craftsmen.

During the 25 years of the Society's existence, it has grown from 17 founders to a membership of 350 craftsmen. The Society is an independent non-profit organization which furthers appreciation of crafts and fine craftsmanship. Its activities include maintenance of standards of design and craftsmanship; sponsoring of exhibits, lectures, conferences in crafts, scholarships and creating sales outlets for products of the Society.

The following Greater Hartford area people are entering the Design Contest and are exhibiting in the Prestige Show: Mrs. Richard Evans of Avon, pottery; Mrs. W. Watson Woodford and Miss Helen Haselton of West Hartford, hand printing. The following members are exhibiting in the Prestige Show: Mrs. Annie Taylor of Hartford, hooked rugs; Mr. Harold Schremmer of Hartford, silver; Mr. John Preu of Newington, jewelry; Mrs. Nancy Greene of Simsbury, jewelry; Miss Charlotte Segur of Wethersfield, enamel.

Weaver Student Among Top 3 In Art Awards

A Weaver High School student has been named one of the three top winners at the national Scholastic Art Award Exhibition in New York City.

Richard Piccolo, 16, won two medals in opaque water color and colored drawing inks, a Strathmore award in prints, an honorable mention in collage, and a Hallmark honor prize of $100 in opaque water colors.

Taking College Course

Piccolo, a junior at Weaver, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Piccolo of 45 Kent St. He is taking the college course at Weaver, where he is described as "an above - average student."

The announcement of the honor was made at the opening of the exhibition, being held through May 13 at the Chrysler Salon in New York City. The show contains 500 national award - winning entries in painting, drawing, design, graphics, sculpture and crafts.

The works on exhibit in New York were selected from an estimated 150,000 entries submitted to preliminary regional exhibitions and eliminations in 36 areas across the country. The competition is sponsored nationally by Scholastic Magazines, and regionally by The Courant Parade of Youth.

Last year, another Weaver student, David Noyes of Blue Hills Avenue, was one of the top two winners in the national awards competition. Both he and Piccolo study art under John Preu, head of the art department at Weaver High School.

By ANNE QUINN

The National Catholic Welfare Conference for the International High School Student Program in Washington, D. C. accepted a scholarship from the Rev. John T. Shugrue, principal, for a foreign exchange student.

Michael Domengino, from Germany, is now enrolled at St. Thomas Aquinas as a senior. He will reside at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Preu of Newington for the year.

Michael is provided with courses not offered in this country; such as English, American and English Literature, American History and Civics. He is interested in journalism and plans to enter in extra-curricular activities.

Officers of the Glee Club, which is under the direction of Sister Helen Edwards, were recently elected for the year. They are: Alfred Guila, president, Faith McMahon, vice president, Brenda Fesiak, secretary, and Arthur Fournier, treasurer. To help defray expenses of the concert, that will be given at the Bushnell Memorial Hall, in Hartford, cake sales and projects will be sponsored by the Glee Club.

Sporting green and white, the cheerleaders for senior varsity will begin another season of arousing enthusiasm among the team and spectators with Carol Kief as captain. Her squad includes: Kathleen Fagan, Corinne Klett, Judith Lissie, Patricia Presch, Linda Gentile, Judith Domkowski, Brenda Fesiak, Susan Berube, and Margaret McVeigh.

Led by Paula Miklos, junior varsity captain, Katherine Grace, Virginia Rich, Patricia Bionco, Ann Marie Heath, Jane Toomey, Mary Lou Klett, Barbara Melhuzzo, Audrey Meligonis, and Kathleen Johnson will cheer on the junior varsity squad.

Sister Michael Joanne supervises both squads.

Big Buildings Don't Awe Exchange Student Here

By MARILYN BABCOCK

NEWINGTON — Though not over-awed by American buildings, Claus-Michael Domenghino of Duisburg, Germany, speaks in superlatives about life in this country.

Michael, or Mike, which he prefers, is an exchange student staying with Mr. and Mrs. John D. Preu of 469 Main St., here for a year. He arrived in the United States in July, one of 150 students sponsored by the National Catholic Welfare Conference, and is a senior at St. Thomas Aquinas High School in New Britain.

When Mike first came to Newington, Preu, with a great deal of pride, took him to Hartford to see the big department stores.

The German youth wasn't overly impressed. But now he's working part-time at one of them during the holiday season.

Quickly Built Up

He said his city, in the industrial heart of West Germany, was almost completely bombed out in World War II. After the war, the city was almost entirely rebuilt, with the finest modern buildings.

He said that the supermart movement has existed for two or three years and almost every small town has a supermarket.

Mike said West Germans look to the United States with affection and credit this country with their reconstruction and sound economy, much of it accomplished through the Marshall Plan.

He will return in July to Duisburg, which is 50 miles north of Cologne on the Rhine River, and is the largest inland port in Europe. The city is often compared with Pittsburgh, Pa., in size and because of its heavy steel industry, the famous Krupp Industries being located in the area.

Given Surprise Parties

Mike's only family is his mother, back home. His father was in the German army and was killed eight days before the war ended. He turned 18 last Friday and was given surprise birthday parties by his classmates and also by Mr. and Mrs. Preu.

"I really like it here," Mike said. "Life in this country is something to enjoy and Americans can be proud of it."

ADVERTISEMENTS

Have you seen the little red hearts I've hung on the doors of my favorite shops? Well, now you're in on the secret—I love them all! Valentine's Day is coming, and I know you'll love them too, and the wonderful ideas they have for gifting your true love. Read on!

For valentine punch, cut a cupid out of red sticky-backed shelf paper, press it onto the pitcher or punch bowl. Be sure

Stop, thief! A Valentine pixie stole my heart, set it with semi-precious stones, and changed himself into a jeweled brooch for a unique Valentine gift. . . $5 at J. D. LeMay, Bishops Corner. While you're there, buy 3 pairs of Dior stockings ($4.35 to $7.00), let them give you a red satin Valentine stocking case.

The first valentines in America were sent by parents to their children.

Venus, the goddess of Love, couldn't have had any more devastating effect than you have boasting a coiffure designed by the artists at Russel Coiffures, 244 Sisson Avenue. AD 6-0805.

In washing stemmed glassware, you will prevent breakage if you lift each piece separately by the stem, wash it and rinse, then take the next. Don't put them all together in a dishpan.

The heart of the fashion matter lies in clothes that fit YOU, and no one else! Custom tailoring gives life to any wardrobe, particularly when it's done by the experts at Leonard's, 47 Asylum Street. Let them make a spring coat or suit in your own choice of fabric and style for just $48— or have one of superb Forstmann fabric made at $58. They also have many ready-made styles to choose from.

I love The Camera Bar, 44 Asylum Street, because they stand behind their merchandise with a five-year parts and labor guarantee on both cameras and projectors.

Valentine crunch is a delicious home-made candy. Melt ¾ cups butter, add 1 cup sugar, stir over heat until bubbles appear. Add 2 tbsp. water, 1 tsp. light corn syrup, and mix well. Continue stirring frequently over low heat until 290 on the candy thermometer or a drop in water is brittle. Remove from stove. Stir in 1 cup chopped nuts, ½ cup coconut, ½ tsp. rum extract. Pour onto a cookie sheet; cool to room temperature. Melt 1 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces over boiling water, spread evenly over candy, set aside till firm, then break in pieces.

Sending sweets to the sweet on Valentine's Day is an old, old custom. But it takes on special meaning when it's a gift of chocolates from Jensen's, 96 Pratt Street. Try their very own luscious chocolates or others, imported and domestic.

An empty washed ½ gallon milk container is large enough to contain a fryer chicken cut in pieces. This makes the container of great use in freezing chickens. The cartons can be neatly labeled and stacked in the freezer.

I love Tuckel's and Foam Rubber City, 110 Asylum, because just for me and Valentine's, they've reduced their Alpine Danish modern armchair, regularly $29.95, to $19, in your choice of colors. Now mention Jacqueline!

Strawberry cream mold for a Valentine dessert! Use sherbet glasses or heart-shaped molds. Mix 1 envelope gelatin, 2 tsp. sugar, ½ tsp. salt. Stir in ½ cup milk, stir over low heat until dissolved. Remove, add 1 pkg. vanilla. Stir until strawberries thaw, mixture mounds when to do this before you put in the floor when propped up against cold punch, lest the moisture that forms prevent its sticking.

"Men never make passes at girls who wear glasses" is now a passe term. And it's so thanks to people like the Mark Twain Optical Company, 318 Farmington Avenue, who make wearing glasses an additional beauty aid. You'll be delighted by this new shop's sparkling array of frames and optical accessories.

The handsome R and K Originals go straight to your heart because of their wonderful wearability and washability! And playing Cupid in this fashionable match-making is the Boulevard Shop on Sage - Allen's second floor. Pure silk, boucle and Arnel jersey is the basis for this outstanding collection and you'll find slim, trim styles as well as the more frothy full-skirted ones. An "irresistible" is a striking brown and white checked Arnel with matching jacket. All the most desirable colors are represented, so you'll have a heyday making your selection!

Make a "My Funny Valentine" card; with a pink heart - face on a red card. Features are shiny plastic tape; hair is black pipe - cleaners, pressed over a double faced tape.

Don't call on Cupid to further your romantic interests, simply step into the Harry Fleischer 1. Miller Salons, corner of Pratt and Trumbull Streets, downtown Hartford or West Hartford Center, and select a memento to tell her how much you really care. Smother her with jewels-bogus ones, of course, but they are big and beautiful—or thrill her with an unusually lovely beaded bag or—rich wallet.

Tighten the slip cover on a chair by pushing a small cardboard roll, such as those on which cellophane wrapping is sold into the back of the chair seat and along each side of the seat.

I love Stackpole, Moore, Tryon Co. because when they have a sale, they really go all out! They want to move out all their winter stock of blouses, from pretty short-sleeved ones to go under suits to go—everywhere jerseys and tailored shirts, so they've marked them all half-price. Many dresses are half-price, and a special rack holds treasures originally as much as $70, now priced at $5, $10, and $15. How can you beat that?

"Roses are red
Violets are blue
Sugar is sweet
And so are you."

Do you know the three secrets of the success of Catherine's Uniform Shop, 26 Allyn St? Wide selection, finest quality best brands, and service, such as free alterations. Open till 7 Thursdays.

Place a window shade upside down behind the shade. When you cook, pull the shade up and hook it on a small nail in the wall.

Feminine Topics has appeared continuously in The Courant since April 1894. These excerpts from Feb., 1911 give an interesting picture of the life and manners of that era.

Brocades are still in vogue. Instead of covering one's cologne bottle, smelling salts and other boxes and bottles on her dresser with ordinary silks and satins, such articles are covered with fine brocades.

There is a tendency on the part of many invariably to use perfumes on going to the theatre. There are some people who are too selfish to care about the comfort of others, but the majority of women if they knew how very unpleasant the odor of perfumes was to many, often giving them severe headaches and sometimes causing real illness, they would refrain from wearing them in any public gathering indoors.

Not all the spring coloring will be mild and dainty. Many of them will be almost alarmingly bright, and combinations strange and wonderful are already beginning to appear.

Doesn't the wearing of the large velvet bag suspended by a long silk cord over the shoulder suggest the tourist or the photographer's most elegant gowns. When you have finished frying the spattering foods, drop the shade down into place and out of sight.

It was love at first sight! I walked into the Lucy Baltzell Shop, 86 Farmington Avenue, and was completely enamored with the newest Pauline Triguere original. Wonderfully feminine and flattering, this imported pique sheath in a fresh blue, violet and green print, is certain to set hearts a-flutter! The front of the bodice is high necked and finished off with a crisp tie-ah, but it's only a front, the back dips down, down, down. The sleeves are short and slightly flared.

"I could tell you lots of reasons Why I like you like I do. But the most important one of all is just because you're you."

Sheath dresses reveal the figure—a long-legged panty girdle gives you trim support. Now specially reduced at Charis Shop, 59 Allyn Street, $2.75 up to $18.95.

A heart as big as all outdoors—is the way you'll feel about Howard Motors, 2813 Main Street, for selling all those wonderful Admiral Appliances at such paltry prices. The reason for the just-slightly-above-dealers' prices is that they are anxious to move these stereo units, refrigerators, ranges, T.V. sets, etc. to make room for their usual line of merchandise. Lucky you!

When scrubbing out your sink, use a very fine scouring powder to avoid scratching the enamel, and carefully rinse away the powder after scrubbing. To remove stains, fill sink with warm water, add ½ cup of bleach.

For your "valen-tie", they've a varied new assortment of spring patterns in neckwear by Adrian, Oleg Cassini, and Dior, from $2.50 to $10 at Warner and Bailey, 140 Trumbull.

To get further use from old, soiled artificial flowers, shake off dust and dip in or spray with gilt or bronze paint. They make a decorative winter bouquet themselves, or they can be added to dried arrangements.

Give her an old fashioned lacy Valentine—one of the pretty daron and cotton broadcloth "sissy" blouses from the Better Blouse Department on G. Fox and Company's third floor. They're drip dry, hand and machine washable and so pert and feminine with their roll-up sleeves and rounded collars. The colors are absolutely luscious! Turquoise, Banana, Lilac, Coral, Light Blue, Hot Pink and White. Sizes 10 to 18 are available at just $7.98. This only one of a collection.

Cupid doesn't have to dispense any arrows when you serve a dessert of flaky tart shells filled with colorful canned fruit cocktail topped with a wisp of meringue. The "piece de resistance" is the caramel lining the shell. Melt 25 candy caramels squares in 1-3 cup cream over very low heat, mixing well. Add 2 slightly beaten egg yolks and boil one minute until thickened, stirring constantly. Stir in 1 teaspoon vanilla and 3 teaspoons lemon juice. Line the pastry shell when the caramel sauce is cool.

February 2 is the date of the charge from the usual—and it's "Fete Chateleur", when parties are held in France, and the sugar, 2 cups milk, ½ cup butter, and ¼ tsp. salt, stirring constantly until sugar dissolves. Then cook at moderate heat stirring occasional-

Dog lovers have put their pooches in fur sweaters, given them diamond collars, so it's not surprising that now electrically heated dog houses (with a thermostat!) should be offered for the pampered pup.

Even a hairdo can be romantic—particularly when it is exemplified by the artistic Italian hair stylists. The Schultz Salons of Connecticut, being aware of this, have imported the Elegante Permanente, a permanent used by the leading stylists of Italy. Influenced by the soft, fluid lines of their country's fashions this wave can be yours for a meager $11.70 at any one of the Schultz Salons. Call the one nearest you for an appointment.

I could almost feel the hot sun and balmy breezes of Bermuda the other day when I stopped in at Henry Miller's, 26 Trumbull. Truly, my eyes turn green with envy when I think of the lucky people heading South, and he has a marvelous selection of resortwear and early spring outfits for women. Bermuda shorts in linen, Liberty lawn, India madras, ready-care dacron'n' cotton poplin, and pure India silk are there for your choice. If you prefer slacks, he has them in the same fabric, and with his unique fit. Sleeveless blouses to coordinate with both come in these fabrics too — early inspection is suggested.

Scholastic Art Prizewinners To Be Displayed at Atheneum

Hallmark Awards Given Finest Works

The best of Connecticut's student art, chosen by the judges of the annual Scholastic Art Awards contest, will be hung at Wadsworth Atheneum Tuesday in preparation for the Scholastic Art exhibition which opens Saturday.

The exhibit will continue until March 10, when the top winners will go to New York for nationwide judging. The Connecticut regional contest is sponsored by The Hartford Courant Parade of Youth and the national contest by Scholastic Magazines Inc.

The finest of the works entered were designated Hallmark entries, and will be judged in New York in a special contest sponsored by the Hallmark Card Co. Works Analyzed Mitchel N. Pappas of the Trinity College department of fine arts analyzed the paintings named Hallmark winners. Pappas was head of the panel of judges.

One Hallmark winner is a pen and ink drawing of a pheasant by Richard Mogielnicki, 18, a senior at New Britain Senior High School. "This is by far the best pen and ink drawing in the show," Pappas comments. "The inventiveness of line, the textural quality, the precision of execution and the element of fantasy were outstanding."

Discussing a mixed media painting of a fishing boat which won a Hallmark designation for Sharon Munzing, a 14-year-old ninth grade student at Carl C. Cutler Junior High School, Mystic, Pappas says "This shows a handsome use of expressive color, done with a linearity which was enhanced three-dimensionally by the clever use of color relationships."

"Like all the Hallmark awards, originality and individuality superceded obvious technical skill in the minds of the judges."

Water Scene

Of a waterfront scene done in opaque water color by Barbara Gilson, 16, a junior at East Windsor High School, Pappas says "Again expressive qualities prevail. The drawing and value pattern are non-existent but a riot of color and texture which surprisingly holds together evokes a spirit which comes from a distinct lack of inhibition."

"Again expressiveness is the keynote," Pappas comments, discussing an opaque water color of a girl submitted by Cheryl Lopez, 16, a sophomore at Manchester High School. "This painting has brilliant, exciting color, enhanced by the bold, decisive black outline. Like the rest of the award winners, it is an abstraction of nature, yet reliance on natural forms seems to prevail."

Poster Wins

The last Hallmark winner is a poster, "Peck's Tomato Barn," by Peter Dalsgaard, 17, a senior at Danbury High School. "The epitome of simplicity, original and precisely executed," Pappas explains, "this poster or advertising design shows a sophisticated and contemporary approach popular in the field today. It is an excellent example of the trend in packaging art or graphic arts."

The regional winners of this

year's Scholastic Art Awards contest are:

The Society of Connecticut Craftsmen will hold this week, in Centinel Hill Hall, in G. Fox and Co., its 17th annual Craft Fair and Exhibition.

Mrs. W. Watson Woodford of West Hartford is the chairman of the fair, which will present for sale and display the hand-crafted work of the more than 330 members of the Society. Among the crafts to be represented will be weaving, pottery, pewter and silversmithing, screen and block printing, fused glass, enameling, stitchery, rug hooking, book binding, woodworking, cabinet making, and others.

A new feature of this year's fair will be the display of master-craftsman works borrowed from their owners, and thus not for sale at this time.

Mr. Evan Kullgren of Columbia heads the demonstration committee. Always a popular part of the fair, the demonstrations will be increased this year. Mr. Kullgren plans to have a loom and a potter's wheel in action daily, and many other types of craftsmen will work in their media during the five days of the fair.

An outside jury has been appointed to judge the entries to the fair, and awards of merit will be presented in those categories the jury finds to be most outstanding. This jury will include Mr. Humphrey Emery, director of the Society of Arts and Crafts, of Boston; Mr. Randolph Aurell of the art department of Central Connecticut State College; and Miss Blanche Browning of the Norwich Art School.

The fair will be open to the public from Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and on Thursday evening until 9 p.m.

Hartford area residents whose work will be shown, or who will be active in the fair's operation, include: Miss Helen Haselton, Mr. Henry H. Pasco, society president, Mrs. Lyman B. Bunnell, Mrs. William Bernhart, Mrs. Roberta Barton, Miss Priscilla Pasco, Mr. Irving E. Farber, Mr. Gerald S. Greene, Mrs. May G. Hughes, Mrs. Bernard LeWitt, Mrs. William P. Lamb, Mrs. Gertrude W. Deadline for the entries is midnight tonight.

Judges for the event are: Mrs. Richard O. Morgan, of 47 Roberts Le., West Hartford, former chairman of the Art Awards Contest, former supervisor of art in the Hartford public schools and former supervisor of teacher training at the Art School of the University of Hartford.

Paul Tedeschi, art teacher at Southern Connecticut State College; Edward Saxe, of Wethersfield, commercial photographer; Sister Mary Louisella, teacher of art at Regis College, Weyon, Mass.; Edward Paier, head of the Paier Art School, West Haven; Ingolf Qually, the chairman of the art department of Gettysberg College, Gettysburg, Pa.; Randolph

Aurell, teacher of art at Central Connecticut State College New Britain; and Lillian Erickson, art teacher at Longmeadow (Mass.) High School.

Another judge will be named this week.

About 6,000 Entries

It is expected that somewhat less than the more than 6,000 entries submitted in 1963 will be entered in the 1964 contest. Deadline for getting entries to The Courant, 285 Broad St., is midnight tonight.

There are 30 categories in the contest, including the variety of work possible in painting and drawing, graphics, design, three dimensional art and photography.

The contest is sponsored in the state by The Courant Parade of Youth and nationally by Scholastic Magazines of New York City.

In the state competition, awards are gold achievement keys and certificates. The judges will also select "blue

Winners of the national competition receive gold medals and seniors submitting outstanding portfolios will receive scholarships to art schools throughout the country. There are also several special cash prizes, up to $100, in the national contest.

Connecticut winners, more than 500 of them, will have the pleasure of seeing their work exhibited at the Wadsworth Atheneum Feb. 15 to March 1. The prizes will be awarded on the 15th.

Pappas Chairman

The Regional Advisory Committee, which oversees the Connecticut competition, is chaired by Mitchell N. Pappas, associate professor of Fine Arts at Trinity College.

Hartford Board of Education; Eugenie T. Lotz, William H. Hall High School, West Hartford; Katherine B. Neilson, education director of the Wadsworth Atheneum; John Preu of Weaver High School; Sister M. Rosalie, Archdiocesan supervisor of art and John Sweeney, Middletown High School.

Scholastic Art Award Works to Go on Exhibit February 15

Courant Sponsored Show Contains Students' Work

The best student art in Connecticut, chosen by the judges of the 17th annual Scholastic Art Awards competition, will go on exhibit Saturday at the Wadsworth Atheneum.

The two-week exhibit annually draws more visitors than any other Atheneum show.

Approximately 100 blue-ribbon works in the show will go on to New York for the national exhibition, sponsored by Scholastic Magazines Inc. The Connecticut competition is sponsored by The Hartford Courant Parade of Youth.

The five best pieces in the show, several of which are shown opposite, are eligible for the special Hallmark Prizes of $100 to be awarded by the national jury in New York. Other awards consist of close to 100 scholarships to art schools, for seniors who submit outstanding portfolios of their work, cash prizes and honors.

Mitchel Pappas of Trinity College's fine arts department, and chairman of the Regional Advisory Committee in charge of the competition, commented on the five Hallmark prize nominations.

Three of the five were done by students at Norwich Free Academy, one by a New Canaan High School student and one by a student at Enfield High School in Thompsonville.

Commenting on the collage by Roseann Butler, 17, of Norwich Free Academy, entitled "Campus Hillside," Pappas said "this is a most successful experimentation in collage. Typical of the freedom exercised at this level, she has combined pasted tissue paper with watercolor wash that makes this semi-abstract work reminiscent of an oriental landscape."

On the black ink drawing of Andrew Bonafant, 16, of Norwich Free Academy, entitled "Trees and Rocks," Pappas said "this displays uncanny control of textures in a most realistic manner."

"The realism of the work," he added, "is reminiscent of a 15th century Flemish approach but has a decorative flatness that stamps it as quite contemporary. The grass is handled in a unique swirling motion which makes an otherwise simple statement one of absorbing interest."

Commenting on the opaque watercolor of Ghislaine Derasse, 17, also of Norwich Free Academy, entitled "The City," Pappas noted the popularity of opaque watercolors in secondary schools. "It lends itself to effects similar to typical palette knife treatment in oil painting," he said.

"The subject, although an often used one, is executed semi-abstractly with a tonality of subdued color which is outstanding for a 17-year-old. The flickering effect of light in the buildings, punctuated by black line, singles out this painting as one of the highlights of the exhibit," he said.

The other two Hallmark nominations, not shown because they don't reproduce well, were also highly praised by Pappas.

One is a semi-abstract oil painting of a reclining nude done by Laurie Tennant, 17, of New Canaan High School. It is untitled. Pappas said it was one of the best oils in the show and was executed "definitely and expertly in a broad palette knife fashion."

The other Hallmark award nominee is a collage by Vickie McMichael, 17, of Enfield High School in Thompsonville. This is called "Fire," which Pappas said was excellent and showed a very sound knowledge of contemporary technique.

The regional winner of this year's Scholastic Art Awards are:

76 Now in Party

Idea to See Fair Grows And Grows and Grows

By JOHN LACY

When seventh and eighth graders on the staff of the Northwest Jones School Observer won $75 for their newspaper's public health project, they decided to give themselves a trip to the World's Fair.

In the past month their idea reached unispherical proportions.

As word got around the school on Woodland Street, other students got a yen to go.

On Friday, the Observer's editorial personnel, two other seventh grade classes, two teachers, a social worker and several parental chaperones—a total of 76—will make a round-trip bus visit to the fair in New York.

Weaver Group Going

Coincidentally, 77 Weaver High School students also are heading for the fair that day. The two groups comprise the first Hartford student trips to the fair.

Mrs. Nancy Martin, a Jones teacher and Observer adviser, said a number in her group earned money raking leaves, baby-sitting, ironing, washing windows and cars to supplement the Observer prize winnings.

"There were places where it would have been easy to get $10 or so," Mrs. Martin said, "but it's nice to see a little bit of the Tom Sawyer spirit."

Barry Weiner, managing editor, handled bookkeeping and Teresa Bacciello, exchange editor, kept up correspondence with fair officials.

Mrs. Martin and Miss Doris Kashmann, a seventh grade teacher, said a fair tour has been mapped out to concentrate on the international exhibits and to include a look at Michelangelo's "Pieta."

The teachers are keeping their fingers crossed for good weather and a lessening of German measles, which has been taking a toll among the young fairgoers.

Dr. Robert H. Mahoney, associate superintendent of schools, said free fair tickets have been made available to schools by the Travelers Insurance Co. There are enough tickets to assure fair trips for 500 students by the end of the school year, he said.

The Weaver excursion was arranged by the Weaver Art Crafts Club for its members and art students. Five teachers accompanying them are Mrs. Helen S. Wyrzten, art instruction coordinator in Hartford schools, John D. Preu and Mrs. Ionis B. Martin of the Weaver art department, Mrs. Dorothy H. Newton of the library staff and Miss Doris Kohl, practice teacher in the art department.

The "Friends of the Library" sponsored its annual open house with an exhibit of arts and crafts. Contributions to the library corporation fund from "Friends of the Library" totaled $1,393.20.

The Civitan Club donated $50 for the purchase of books in the field of government and numerous individuals donated books. Through gifts from the many organizations that use the library meeting rooms library kitchen equipment was replaced.

During the year Librarian Silas Townsend resigned and was replaced by Mrs. Gertrude Hollings, who had been children's librarian for several years.

The Newington chapter, OES, will hold associate matrons and patrons night Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Masonic Temple. Mrs. Elizabeth Plumer and Paul Jensen will greet the guests. A

Scholastic Art Exhibit To Be Held at Trinity

The 1966 Scholastic Art Awards exhibit, sponsored by The Hartford Courant Parade of Youth and Scholastic Magazines Inc., will be held in February at Trinity College's new Austin Arts Center.

Details of the competition, the 19th cosponsored by the Parade of Youth, were announced by James F. Looby, education editor of The Courant.

The exhibit, traditionally held at Wadsworth Atheneum, has been switched to the Austin Center because of construction at the Atheneum, Looby explained.

Hailed by Dr. Jacobs

Commenting on the move, Dr. Albert C. Jacobs, Trinity president, said, "Trinity College welcomes the opportunity to exhibit the art work of the students of Connecticut secondary schools in the Austin Arts Center.

"The Connecticut Scholastic Art Awards Exhibit, sponsored nationally by Scholastic Magazines and in Connecticut by The Hartford Courant, has long been an important art event in Hartford.

"Trinity College's Austin Arts Center provides an excellent focus for the individual art talents of the young creative students and the high quality of art instruction in the secondary schools of our state."

The exhibit, scheduled Feb. 12-26, will climax a selection process which starts Dec. 1.

Teachers should contact The Courant after Dec. 1 for the exact number of entry blanks needed by their students.

Entries from all Connecticut schools must be sent to Looby during the week of Jan. 16, and must be received no later than Jan. 23.

In the days following, the entries will be judged by a committee headed by Mitchel N. Pappas, Trinity professor of fine arts and chairman of the Scholastic Art Awards Regional Committee.

The 19 art classifications cover the fields of painting, drawing, printmaking, design, scul-ture, crafts and photography. The regional exhibition gives students an opportunity for local recognition, while national honors are scholarships, gold medals, special cash awards and display at the National High School Art Exhibition in New York City.

Students in Grades 7 through 12 in public, private or parochial schools are eligible for entry. Students graduating in mid-year may enter if their work was done prior to graduation.

The student's work is judged in two groups, the first, Grades 7, 8, and 9; the second; 10, 11 and 12.

The active awards committee headed by Pappas includes Mrs. Elizabeth Budd, Manchester High School; Joseph Gualtieri, Norwich Free Academy; Looby; Mrs. Helen S. Wyrzten, art consultant of the Hartford Board of Education; the Rev. James G. Fanelli, assistant superintendent of schools, Archdiocese of Hartford; Katherine B. Neilson, educational director, Wadsworth Atheneum; John Preu, Weaver High; Sister M. Rosalie, Hartford Archdiocesan supervisor of art; Harry Arnini, Talcott Junior High School, West Hartford, and Alois Fabry, New Canaan High School.

Park Unit Hears Plans For Ski Tow, Pavilion

The J. B. Williams Park sub-committee Wednesday night elected Edward A. Richardson as permanent chairman. Previously, chairmen were selected on a rotating basis.

In its regular business, the sub-committee approved preliminary plans from the Jaycees for a ski tow and pavilion at Williams Park. These projects will be contributed to the town, the commission heard.

Presenting the plans were Douglas Nelson and Jay Stedman. They told the commission the tow was scheduled to be completed this fall and the pavilion in 1970.

The floor plan the Jaycees unveiled showed the pavilion would have two sections. An enclosed section would be 50 by 30 feet, and an open section 30 by 30 feet.

Use for Dances

Both sections would be in one unit, joined by a concrete floor. The enclosed section would have a fieldstone fireplace and no obstructions on the inner floor. It would also have "self-storing walls," that is, removable walls make like overhead garage doors.

The pavilion, Nelson said, could be used for dances and group picnics. It would have alternate use as a volleyball or horse shoe court.

In outlining the schedule of construction, Nelson said planning could begin this summer and site work in the fall. In the summer of 1967, the floor could be laid and the fireplace, roof and sides could be built in 1968, 1969 and 1970, respectively, he said.

"This looks like a drawn-out schedule," Nelson said, "but after the slab is laid, the area can be used in the summer by teen-age groups." The Glastonbury Square Dance Club has indicated a desire to use the area for open air dances, Nelson said.

Raise Funds

Money for materials would be raised by special programs and projects, both Jaycee members said. During construction, they would depend heavily on help from members and the town, they said.

Sub-committee members were enthusiastic about the plan, and voted to inform the Town Council of it as early as possible. They were also in favor of building the pavilion close to the Neipsic Road entrance.

On the ski tow, Nelson said the town could do the site work, provide the drive unit and be responsible for its operation. The Jaycees, he said, would provide the tow rope, poles and other materials and assemble the tow.

The rope, Nelson said, would be one inch in diameter, of three strands and made of synthetic material. The poles would be those used by the Telephone Co. and donated by them.

To help the Jaycees meet their target date in the fall, Peach said he would try to have the site work done this spring.

On the suggested archery course for the park, the sub-committee voted against it on the grounds that it requires too much land. There were indications that some members were skeptical of the safety of such an operation in a recreation area.

The archery course, proposed by the Recreation Commission, was to utilize 30 acres and have 14 target stations with 28 targets. Consultant on this facility was Arthur M. Hall, president of Halls Archery Assn.

School Spirit

The student council of the high school will present a student-faculty panel discussion of school spirit Monday at 2:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Under discussion will be such topics as the need for school spirit, how it can be increased, and the significance of football for school spirit.

High school students, teachers, members of the Board of Education and other residents are invited to attend and participate.

Honor Society

Two local high school students were recently selected as semifinalists in the National Honor Society scholarship program sponsored by the National Assn. of Secondary School Principals. Theodore Bartolotta, principal of the high school, said Wednesday.

These students are Peter Kreiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kreiner of 107 Overlook Rd., and Rebecca Rawls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rawls of 328 Chestnut Hill Rd.

The Glastonbury Art Guild will sponsor a demonstration in the making of fine jewelry at 8 p.m. Friday at the Welles-Turner Library. Giving the demonstration will be Mrs. May Hughes of West Hartford.

Mrs. Hughes, a teacher in West Hartford since 1958, once studied with John Preu of Newington and taught in Wethersfield and Meriden. She has exhibited art work at the West Hartford Art League, Society of Connecticut Craftsmen and in the Mystic Art festival.

The public is invited.

Art League Sponsors Exhibition at Library

The West Hartford Art League is sponsoring an exhibition of art work at the Noah Webster Memorial Library on So. Main Street in West Hartford for a month.

The craft exhibition in the Main Library includes jewelry by May Hughes, John Preu, Elsie Hale, Harriel Blumenthal, Martha Austin, Beth Chandler, and Babs Read.

Sculpture in the exhibition is represented with works by Sue Crowell, Betty Brennan, Betty Young, and Dr. Charlie Tucker.

Priscilla Pasco and Joan Downes are showing pottery; Helen Haselton and Davis Stearns, block printing; Henry Pasco, weaving, and Flora Arnoldi, antique decorating.

Children's art from classes conducted by Joan Gitlow, Diane Marinaro, and Donald La-Croix is being shown in the Children's Library. Several teen painters who are studying with Estelle Coniff are also showing.

The exhibit was coordinated by Miss Elizabeth Taylor and Miss Bonnie Bergstrom of the library staff, and Art League members, Mrs. May Hughes, Miss Harriel Blumenthal, Mrs. Kent White, and Mrs. Raymond Schipke.

The exhibition will be open during library hours until April

JOHN PREU ... a 'perfect situation'

Art Teacher Aids Convict Pupils

By JEAN WETHERBEE
NEWINGTON — John Preu of Newington, an art teacher of many years experience, describes his classes at the Connecticut State Prison in Somers as a "perfect teaching situation."

For four years Preu has been conducting art classes twice a week from September to June at the state prison. A teacher at Weaver High School in Hartford, he started this extra chore when the prison was located in Wethersfield. Many fellow teachers from Weaver taught in the prison evening school program, and art seemed a reasonable outlet and hobby for the "men behind the walls."

"My students at the prison want to study art — we always have a long waiting list and I limit the class to about 12 men. I have no discipline or attendance problem; it's a teacher's dream!"

This week an exhibit of more than 60 works of art produced by Preu's students at the prison is on view at the Lucy Robbins Welles Library in Newington. Preu does not seek exhibitions of the work, but the board of directors here learned of his classes and asked for a show of the interesting paintings and drawings. As a result, the men's work has been shown here annually.

"The men provide their own materials and can work in any medium they wish. As a result we have works in oil, water colors charcoal pencil and ink. The new acrylic paint is very popular—a plastic base paint that looks like oil but dries very quickly."

"They also do a great deal of experimental work to get unusual textures. One man mixed glue and cigarette ashes, another put calamine lotion into his paint to get the effect he wanted. Many enjoy 'crayon etching', brilliant crayon colors covered with a dark ink to give an etched effect."

Abilities Vary

The abilities of the men vary. Few have had any previous training, but many produce appealing and interesting results.

Most of the painting and drawings on exhibit are for sale although this is not the purpose of the show. Each year in Newington residents await the exhibit, hoping to purchase another of unique work of art and those for sale go rapidly.

"Teaching this class is very rewarding," Preu said. "My relationship with the men is very pleasant. They range from young fellows in their late teens to men in their 50s; they may have their troubles, but in class they appear no different than any average group of men."

Two Hobbies Shown In Library Displays

Two hobbies—one an active, outdoor activity and the other an intricate one to be done at a table under bright lights—are illustrated in the display cases at the West Hartford Public Library and at the North End Branch Library this month.

The Main Library, observing the official opening of the new Veteran's Memorial Rink on Buena Vista, has a study of figure skating in its display cases in the lobby. The exhibit, called "The Fine Art of a Sport," shows the development of figure skating over the past sixty years.

The right-hand case has several pairs of antique skates, including one venerable wooden pair with metal attached to the bottom of the blades. A beautiful pair of metal blades is intricately worked with a design and has the name of the manufacturer in elaborate letters engraved on them. All of the antique skates were made to be strapped on the shoes of the skater. A number of handsome prints also illustrate the turn-of-the-century approach to skating.

In the case on the left, figure skating as it is being done today is illustrated with color photographs of Hartford skaters, with diagrams of the figures that must be learned and with periodicals telling about what is currently being done in figure skating.

This exhibit was organized and installed in the display cases by the Charter Oak Figure Skating Club, of which James W. Huffer is president.

A different hobby can be seen at the North End Branch, 15

Starkel Road. This is the meticulous art of jewelry-making. Students of Mrs. May Griswold Hughes and of John D. Preu have lent their work and it is displayed along with the handsome painted trays and boxes of Mrs. Marion Cooney's students in American Antique Decorating.

Most of the jewelry on display is silver and many of the pieces are set with such semi-precious stones as agates, turquoises, amazonites and tiger eyes. Petrified wood, highly polished, and synthetic faceted stones are also used in some of the pieces, which include bracelets, rings, pins and necklaces. Some of the most imaginative pins are made, with a touch of humor, in the shapes of animals—a burrow turtles, dolphins, a whale and a ram's head.

In addition to the jewelry, there are ash trays, salt dishes and demi-tasse spoons, bone in enamel on silver, enamel on copper and silver with stones. One of the most remarkable things about this work is the fact that it has been done by amateurs, some of them people who have been working at jewelry-making for no more than a year.

Mrs. Cooney's students not only have trays and boxes painted in early American motifs, they also have done pictures on velvet and glass. Both media demand great care in painting.

All three teachers hold their classes at the West Hartford Art League, Mountain Road, in West Hartford.

Teacher To Be Feted By Former Students

Weaver High School art teacher John D. Preu will be honored at a reception Tuesday given by some of his former students—all members of the school's class of 1911.

Preu is retiring in June after a number of years at Weaver.

The reception will be held at Pipnies' Restaurant, 682 Wethersfield Ave., at 7 p.m.

young painter seeks success

by JANET BEATTY
for The Courant

"Until Picasso died, I didn't feel right. His presence was there in everything I painted." His sneakered foot, lounging across the knee of his faded jeans, began to twitch rapidly. "I'm 31, and what have I done? Picasso had turned out so much."

"David," his wife said. "Picasso had Gertrude Stein to back him financially."

His bouncing foot relaxed; he nodded and a smile sprouted between his dark moustache and well-trimmed beard.

David R. Noyes, a West Hartford painter and illustrator, says he is going to be the next Picasso. He has to believe that, he says. It keeps him going.

Like Picasso, Noyes has nearly as many painting styles as he has years. Like Picasso, Noyes would rather paint than exhibit. And like Picasso, Noyes was ecstatic at the birth of his first child. But unlike Picasso, Noyes is not famous.

"Picasso walks in the light and a little ahead of himself, like Raphael," Gertrude Stein once said of her protege. Noyes deliberately side-steps that "walk in the light" to bask in the glow of what is around him instead of up ahead.

Drawing or preparing to paint in his comfortable five-room apartment, he is surrounded by Janet, the girl-next-door whom he married, their ten-month-old daughter, Zoe, a six-year-old St. Bernard named Thelma, and Iris, a black Persian cat. Noyes is doing what he's wanted to do since he was five years old, and he's happy.

Noyes has been drawing almost since he was born on March 2, 1943 in Hartford. By the time he was three, he was drawing profiles instead of toddlers circle doodles. "He would always draw to amuse himself," said his mother, Mrs. Russell Noyes. "When he was five, he'd tell stories that included guns and tanks, and illustrate them with pencil sketches or crayon drawings as he went along."

Today, Noyes' illustrations have made the cover of Sports Illustrated, and the inside pages of Life.

Noyes employs a panel approach to golfing here.

Harper's, Reader's Digest, Seventeen, and Cavalier.

Tucked away in a scrapbook at his parents' house are scraps of his earlier art career at Northwest Grammar School, and then at Weaver High School in Hartford. Weaver's beaver — the varsity letter Noyes designed when he was a high school basketball player (he's 6 feet 2) — shares the folder with pre-school and grammar school artwork.

When he was nine, he made his own 3-D comic books. When he was 10 he was chosen the winner out of 1,468 contestants in the "Mr. Rabbit" coloring contest sponsored by a moving van company. After that flirt with artistic fame, he rode the "brother rabbit" bicycle he had won, joined the Boy Scouts, played Little League baseball coached by his father as manager, displayed his bug collection of the "meaner ones like beetles and praying mantises" and managed to stay out of the public's artistic eye for about five years.

Then, when he was 15, Noyes won the first cash prize in The Hartford Courant's 11-year-sponsorship of the regional Scholastic Arts awards. Eighty-four pieces, at first said by the judges to be "too good to be original," were the basis of Noyes' prize for "versatility and extraordinary talent."

Courtroom scenes, zoo sketches, and a painting of his father in the bathtub were among his 14 entries that won blue ribbons, the 10 that earned gold keys, and the 27 certificate-of-merit winners. One of his blue ribbon pieces earned Noyes one of the four

In Connecticut, Noyes' work gained recognition as it was entered in shows state-wide. By this time, Noyes was "head over heels in art," according to his high school art instructor, John D. Preu. "You couldn't give him enough work to do, or enough books to read. Whatever he did, he did well. David was one of those students you dream about — in 35 years of teaching, he was the highlight."

Noyes' dream was already fixed when he was 15 years old. President of the Weaver High School Arts-Crafts Club, he had already decided to major in illustration at Pratt Institute in New York City. After graduation from high school, he gave up his after-school job making illustrations for the Wallace Prell Advertising Agency in Hartford. He went to Pratt, winning the Hallmark Honor Prize in the 1961 Scholastic Art awards, and a $500 prize from Seventeen Magazine on his way.

At Pratt, he plunged into a six-week course designed to bring students into contact with people in the illustrating field. Twenty students worked with Richard Gangel, art director of Sports Illustrated. The carrot dangling before their noses was the promise of free-lance work on Sports Illustrated for the best illustrator in the course. Noyes won, and was graduated "with promise" in 1965.

Not so promising was the New York City neighborhood he lived in for six years after graduation. An area of 1,000 square feet, with 15-foot-high walls, on the top floor of a five-floor old warehouse building in the Soho, or Bedford-Stuyvesant, district of the city — this one-room bare loft became his home and studio.

Walking down the street outside the loft, Noyes could meet on one day one of the "gods" of young artists, Willem deKooning, a well-known abstract expressionist, and the next day be caught in the middle of two men flashing switchblades at each other.

"It was a tough neighborhood," Noyes said. "One thing you do in that neighborhood — you act like nothing bothers you."

The one thing that really did bother Noyes was having his work rejected. According to a friend, he was so sensitive to criticism that he worked in secret for a year or two, not showing anyone anything until he had 10 or 12 paintings. Then, when he was ready for their criticism, he asked for it.

Work was good at times. Sports Illustrated sent him to Chicago where he watched and sketched a 13-year-old girl defeat a 50-year-old in the Women's Billiards Championship. Noyes also visited Baltimore, where he sketched a boxing match, and Carmel, Calif., where he got seasick on a U.S. Navy captain's boat. Life sent him to the west coast to do a series of illustrations on Sirhan Sirhan, convicted killer of U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. But the illustrations for Life were never printed, being replaced at the last minute.

Noyes pounded agency doors in New York, and grew discouraged. "Can you imagine every day seeing four or five or a dozen agencies and being rejected? Someone says, 'No, I don't like it.' Fine art, which is your soul! And people say 'I don't understand it.'"

"Talk about rejection — I did an illustration of a professional golfer, and he really liked it. He asked me how much I would take for it, and when I told him, he balked. Here's a professional, who knocks a little ball into a hole and thinks nothing of getting $40,000 a year, but he won't pay a couple of hundred to a pro in another line of work."

One night, during a poker game at the loft, Noyes realized he didn't like what was happening. "Everyone started talking everything but art," he said. Some artists are just walking the walk and talking the talk. The masquerade was sometimes as important to them as talent. David couldn't masquerade."

Having had a show in New York in early 1971 at the O.K. Harris Gallery, owned by Ivan Karp who discovered Andy Warhol, Noyes was confident he could make it on his own. David and Janet sold the loft and moved to East Moriches, L.I., in 1971.

The grass was only greener literally, not figuratively, on Long Island. "The first year was glorious. The storms were beautiful. To commune with nature, you went to a tree, a rock, a blade of grass. But after a while, they're all the same. How long can you talk to a tree? I had no one to shop-talk art with; the only people who were there were duck farmers."

After 2½ years on Long Island, the Noyes couldn't afford to buy back the loft in New York City. In the summer of 1973, they moved to West Hartford where he now divides his time between teaching, free-lancing and his family.

As a teacher at the West Hartford Art League, Noyes is "very difficult, very demanding, and very direct," said one of his students, Mrs. Francis Gorman, Jr., who hired Noyes, said, "You have to work in his class. When he says, 'Draw a ballet dancer in one minute,' you do it."

Noyes is teaching classes that his first teacher, the late Irving Katzenstein, once taught. There is no trouble filling up his class. People still remember and telephone the League to ask "Is that the David Noyes who walked away with all those prizes when he was 15?"

Students in Noyes' class range in age from 20 to 70, and have included an architect, a portrait artist who also teaches at the League, an endocrinologist, a psychiatrist, a librarian and a student who claims to be a descendant of Van Gogh.

In addition to the two nights a week at the League, Noyes teaches watercolor at Glastonbury High School adult education and mixed media at Farmington Valley Arts Center once a week. The rest of his time is free — free to free-lance and worry about the rent.

"I have a lot of freedom, but you pay heavy for that freedom," he said. "You never know when your next meal ticket is coming in."

Then why doesn't he go out and solicit illustrating jobs?

Right now, Noyes is comfortable basking in a domestic world, enjoying being a father. Sure, he worries about money, but only momentarily. He has just finished an illustration on deer hunting for Sports Illustrated, and another illustrating job will come along. It always has.

Has he ever sold any of his fine artwork? Just a few small pieces, to people whose names he can't remember. Last year, he painted about 12 eight-foot-high canvases and no one bought them. Will people buy what he paints now?

Styles change. In 1971, when Noyes showed at the O.K. Harris Gallery, not one of his "gorgeous monochromatic black paints," as described by gallery owner Karp, sold. Karp said Noyes' recent works are "over-elaborate complex constructions — his recent direction did not engage us." He was quick to add, "However, he has substantial talent."

Something besides talent is needed to sell Noyes' work — his father thinks it's "gimp." Noyes got a lesson in aggressiveness, or "gimp," from his father at the opening last November of Noyes' studio in the Farmington Valley Arts Center. More than one-fifth of his works shown were sold immediately, partly due to his father's efforts.

"I don't like to talk money or business — an artist is more interested in painting," said the son. But the father can't help saying, "If he only had a little more gimp — he's not aggressive enough. When you have talent, you have to push. He's got a lot on the ball, but ..."

The studio opening was successful. So is Noyes — he's happy with his work, his teaching, and his family. The opening proves that his work sells. And if he really went out there in the commercial world and "ballyhooed," as his father says, maybe he really could become the next Picasso. □
